WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Death In Blast

COPENHAGEN (UPI)—A series of explosions ripped Copenhagen's main gas works today like a string of firecrackers.

Police said four persons were missing. Two persons were believed killed and "several hundred" injured, police reported.

The force of the explosions shattered windows seven miles away. Most of the injuries were the result of flying glass. At least 100 persons required hospital treatment but most were released after receiving first aid.

U.N. Peace Force

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—The Security Council has given the U.N. Peace Force another three-month lease on life, but it was warned the operation may go broke before then. The 11-nation council voted unanimously yesterday to continue the 6,160-man force until Dec. 26 to try to keep peace on the explosive Mediterranean island.

Artificial Heart

AMSTERDAM, The Netherlands (AP)—The U.S. physician who developed the artificial kidney predicts an artificial heart may soon be available for humans. Dr. Willem J. Kolff of Cleveland, Ohio, told the European Dialysis and Transport Assn. yesterday that hearts of animals had been replaced in experiments by small mechanical pumps.

Space Flight

WASHINGTON (AP)—Astronauts Virgil I. Grissom and John W. Young plan to make the nation's first two-man orbital flight in a Gemini spacecraft "within the first 90 days" of 1965. Grissom said during a visit here yesterday that he hoped the flight would take place in January.

Warren Arrives

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Chief Justice Earl Warren of the U.S. Supreme Court flew into San Francisco late yesterday for a one-week visit to California. The former California governor declined to answer questions about his plans for the vacation.

Bomber Will Fly

EDWARDS AFB (AP) — The XB-70 bomber is scheduled to fly again Monday morning, the Air Force reports. This time it will try to accomplish basic goals set for its first flight: 700 miles an hour speed and 35,000 feet altitude.

Fort Ord Order

FORT ORD (AP)—The Army announced yesterday that only recruits from California will be sent for basic training at Fort Ord during October. The action to exclude other trainees at the sprawling Army camp in Monterey County followed the 82nd case of meningitis there during the year. Twelve of those stricken have died.

Fog And Drizzle Help Fight Fire In Santa Barbara

Two North State Blazes Remain Out Of Control

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Fog and light drizzles hit lower levels of the Santa Barbara brush fire today, and the U.S. Forest Service reported the 88,000-acre blaze 50 per cent contained.

The moisture didn't extinguish any fire. But it helped materially by cooling the blaze sufficiently for men to get in closer to fight it, a forest service spokesman said.

Fire Boss Bill Hansen, supervisor of Los Padres National Forest, made no prediction on full containnment. A spokesman said weather conditions were "vary favorable," however, for the 2,000 men fighting the 3.5-million-dollar blaze on a 20-mile front.

Two Northern California fires remained out of control today, the Division of Forestry said, but containment was expected by nightfall.

NOT OUT YET

About 425 men and 120 pieces of equipment concentrated on a blaze near Petrolia in southwest Humboldt County. The fire was 95 per cent surrounded by fire lines, said Dale Wierman, fire information officer. But 10 acres were burning on Moody Ridge at the southeast side of the blackened timber area. And the 10 acres, Wierman said, are near a heavy concentration of brush, fallen timber and standing trees that might burn explosively if flames reached the area.

About 15 per cent of open line remained on the northwest side of Mount St. Helena in the Hanley fire that burned some 52,700 acres from Calistoga to Santa Rosa, Wierman said. Tanker planes were bombing the open line in extremely steep terrain.

MEN, EQUIPMENT

"None of the fires is out yet," Wierman said. "Mopping up continues. We hope to have all of them in good shape by evening."

Since it started Tuesday, the Santa Barbara fire has destroyed 78 homes and major structures and damaged six. One fire fighter was killed, and 41 were injured. Eleven remain in hospitals with various degrees of burns.

Gov. Edmund G. Brown, who earlier inspected this week's fires in Northern California, left Burbank by plane this morning for a helicopter inspection of the Santa Barbara fire.

FOUR MARIN GRID TEAMS SCORE WINS

Four of the five Marin County football teams that saw action yesterday scored victories in non-league encounters.

The Drake Pirates blitzed Oceana 47-0, Redwood whipped Ukiah 26-6, Novato edged Analy 13-12 and College of Marin routed the Chico State junior varsity 26-6. San Rafael suffered a 22-14 loss at the hands of Montgomery High of Santa Rosa.

Action resumed this afternoon when Marin Catholic High played Oakland Tech at Kentfield and continues tonight when Terra Linda High plays Del Valle at San Rafael High School field and Tamalpais entertains Skyline High at Kentfield.

Bandit Gets $300 Cash In Holdup

A bandit who "looked like a bum" pointed a concealed pistol, or his index finger, at the owner of the Lincoln Market, 1492 Lincoln Avenue, this morning and threatened to "blow your brains out" as he stole $300 and an unknown number of checks.

The owner, Mario Souza, 61, of 19 Library Place, San Anselmo, told San Rafael police the man entered his store just after it opened at 8:30 a.m., waited until two or three customers had left, and then demanded the contents of the cash register.

After Souza dumped the cash on the counter, the bandit ordered him to the back room to lie down.

The man returned once, "to see if you were still lying down," before he fled at about 9 a.m.

Souza told police the man was about 30, five-feet-ten, 160 pounds, clean-shaven with brown hair. He wore sun-glasses, a duck-hunter's cap, a tan raincoat and — Souza observed as he lay on the floor—dirty brown tennis shoes.

He spoke with a southern accent and "had a beautiful tan."

Police were uncertain as to the exact number and amount of checks taken.

Chief Charles J. Chiesa appealed to anyone who cashed a check at the store yesterday to make a report.

Sainthood Voted

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Paul VI and more than 100 cardinals and bishops voted approval today of sainthood for 22 African tribesmen slain for their Christian beliefs.

Vietnam Civilian Council Formed By Premier Khanh

BAN ME THUOT, Vietnam (UPI) — Premier Nguyen Khanh today helped inaugurate a 17-man civilian council charged with creating a civilian government. Then he flew to this Montagnard capital to try again to put down a rebellion by mountain tribesmen.

It was Khanh's second effort to put down the revolt by the American-trained tribesmen who dislike the Vietnamese people and are demanding more self-rule. The rebellion is the gravest threat yet to the war against the Communist Viet Cong.

In the war itself, an American-supported battalion of Vietnamese rangers was reported locked in battle with 600 Viet Cong rebels in Vinh Binh Province 76 miles southwest of Saigon. A U.S. Army sergeant was missing and presumed dead in the fighting. A U.S. plane was shot down but the American pilot and his Vietnamese co-pilot escaped injury.

OFF ON ANOTHER JAUNT—Roberta Winans of Mill Valley will start alone on a 'round-the-world trip Oct. 5. Such travels are nothing new to her. The olive wood figurines from Majorca she has here are mementoes from an earlier trip. (Independent-Journal photo)

73-Year-Old Marinite To Circle Globe Again

By BRUCE COLEMAN

Off on the sea again is Roberta Winans, Mill Valley's septuagenarian vagabond.

This time it is around the world, with emphasis in new African countries.

Asked if she has any fears of traveling at 73, Miss Winans, a retired teacher and Marin County social worker, replied. "You are much safer. I worried much more at 30. Now everyone seems protective instead of predatory."

This sparkling woman walker and builder of rock walls at her home on Cornelia Avenue) will go aboard the Pacific and Orient Liner, Arcadia, Oct. 5 in San Francisco with a reason for being in her heart and not more than 44 pounds of luggabe in her hands.

"You have to travel lightly," she said. "And, you're seeing new people all the time so they don't get tired of your clothing. You can pick up something new and discard something old as you go along. You have just enough to carry yourself. You never need porters."

She likes to travel alone, having tried groups. She travels inexpensively and stays in YWCA'S. She likes to take trips with foreigners because it's less costly and more interesting with her person-to-person approach. "This way," she commented, "you do so much more than going as a tourist who wants to see the animals. The Peace Corps does it marvelously."

Why Africa? "I have gone a great many other places. The only other place I would like to visit is Peking. I can't. I think Africa is one of the most excit-

Nocturnal Wildlife Upsets Driver, Then Neighborhood

"He saw a rat, then a cat, then splat," was the way one onlooker described what happened on Northern Avenue in Tamalpais Valley at 2 a.m. today.

"He" was Edward Donald Johnston, 19, of 529 Midvale Way, Tamalpais Valley, whose car went out of control, re-landscaped two yards, flattened 30 feet of fence, and finally knocked a six-by-two-foot hole in of the Edward C. Racely home, foundation and dining room wall 545 Northern Avenue.

California Highway Patrolman said Johnston told them he hit his brakes too hard when his car swerved out of control after first a white rat, then a light-colored cat, sped across his path. The brakes caused the car to swerve even harder, off the road.

Johnston was unhurt, CHP officers said but he faces citation for excessive speed, driving without due caution and driving without a valid license in his possession.

Auto Union, G.M. Set Contract Talk Sunday

DETROIT (UPI)—The United Auto Workers union and General Motors Corp. will resume negotiations tomorrow in an effort to resolve a nationwide strike which has closed down the giant of the auto industry and idled 260,000 workers.

The strike was called by UAW president Walter P. Reuther at 10 a.m. yesterday. G.M. personnel vice president Louis G. Seaton had said he would contact the union by telephone today and arrange new meetings.

Coo!, Foggy Air Flows Over Fire Scarred Coast

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—A 3,000-foot deep layer of cool air from the sea moved inland today through coastal range passes toward all sections north of the Tehachapis.

"Temperatures over Northern and Central California should then continue near or a little below the seasonal normal Sunday," forecaster W. J. Denney said.

The weather map appears to be stabilizing on this pattern—lower pressure than normal over the interior of California and southern Oregon, normally high offshore, he added.

The change from hot weather began yesterday, accented by a high of 62 in San Francisco where it was 92 the day before.

Fireman Hurt In $30,000 Blaze

House Burns In Hub

A firefighter was injured and $30,000 damage resulted from fire in the Wilbur D. Nicol home at 89 Melville Avenue, San Anselmo yesterday.

Assistant Fire Chief Richard McLaren was burned on the right arm when part of the ceiling fell on him while he and other firemen were fighting their way into the fiercely burning home. He was treated at Marin General Hospital and released.

STAYED HOME

One of the Nicols' three sons, Barrett, 15, discovered the mid-afternoon blaze, while he was staying home from Sir Francis Drake High School classes due to illness. He smelled smoke and checked the basement furnace, but failed to locate the cause until he heard flames crackling in the living room.

He rushed outside and called firemen from a neighbor's home.

McLaren said the front part of the house was engulfed in flame when firemen arrived. They worked for about 15 minutes before bringing the fire under control.

HEAT, SMOKE

Burned were the living room, dining area and front porch. Heat and smoke damage was extensive throughout the two-story, four-bedroom home. Fire Chief Frank Sousa of San Anselmo estimated damage to the contents at about $10,000 and damage to the building at around $20,000. Nicol said today that this might be a little high.

The fire is believed to have started on the front deck and burned through the wooden construction of the second floor into the house.

"It's not the material damage so much as the little sentimental things," said Mrs. Nicol this morning, after surveying the damage. "We had a 100-year-old dining room table and chair set which I just hated to lose."

Nicol, who owns Red Robin Caterers in Kentfield, said his book collection "of no particular value except to me," was destroyed.

The Nichol's other sons, Steven, 20, and Robert, 18, both were attending classes at College of Marin when the fire broke out.

The family has split up to stay with various neighbors and friends until they can find temporary quarters. It will take about three or four months to complete repairs, Nichol estimated.

The flames gutted the two front rooms on the second floor as well as living room and dining area and burned through the roof in several places.

Firemen are still investigating the exact cause of the fire. Mrs. Nicol said that an electric clock which she had left on the front deck near two couches may have been responsible.

Hoover Reports Violence Outbreaks Not Race Riots

WASHINGTON (AP) — FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover said today nine recent riots in the northern United States were not race riots and were not organized by the Communist party or any other group.

In a 19 page report ordered by President Lyndon B. Johnson, Hoover said that while racial tensions were a contributing factor, in most "none of the nine occurrences was a 'race riot' in the accepted meaning of the phrase. They were not riots of Negroes against whites or whites against Negroes. And they were not a direct outgrowth of conventional civil rights protest.' "

Hoover said "no evidence was found that the riots were organized on a national basis by any single person, group of persons, or organization. "

He said the Communist party in this country "does not appear to have officially instigated" July rioting in the Negro areas of New York City "though its members were observed taking part in some, and its former members are leaders" of groups seeking to exploit Negro unrest.

Among these groups the report mentioned were the Progressive Labor movement and the Labor Vanguard.

The report covered the FBI's probes of rioting between July 18 and Sept. 7 in New York City and Rochester, N.Y.; Jersey City, Elizabeth and Paterson, N.J.; Dixmoor, Ill., Philadelphia; Seaside, Ore., and Hampton Beach, N.H.

Hoover said a common characteristic of the riots was a "senseless attack on all constituted authority without purpose or object."

Some of the riots often were incited by adult troublemakers, Hoover said, but the "mob violence was dominated by the acts of youths ranging in age up to the middle twenties . . . variously characterized by responsible people as 'school drop-out,' 'young punks,' 'common hoodlums,' and 'drunken kids.'"

Hoover said the presence of reporters and television cameras at the riots "provided an opportunity for self-seeking individuals to publicize wild charges on television and radio and in the press.

GOP Is 'Fighting Power'; Johnson Takes Day Off

COMBINED AP & UPI

Sen. Barry M. Goldwater, preaching "togetherness" for Republicans, headed for a rendezvous with Michigan Gov. George Romney today, accusing the Democrats of telling fairy tales about foreign policy.

Goldwater said in South Bend, Ind., that the Republicans "are fighting power" in the election race.

"We are fighting billions of dollars," Goldwater said.

He charged that one postman in Los Angeles wouldn't deliver mail to his headquarters there. Goldwater did not explain the complaint, but he implied it was a manifestation of Democratic power.

In San Francisco last night, Rep. William E. Miller charged "the full resources of the federal government" have been thrown into the campaign battle against the Republicans."

The GOP vice presidential nominee said that public funds, personnel and facilities were being used by the Johnson administration in the election fight.

Miller addressed the Commonwealth Club, a study and discussion group in the windup of two days of campaigning in California, which he has labeled a critical state in the election.

He headed today for two stops in New Mexico, followed by a weekend of rest in Colorado Springs, Colo.

Democratic vice presidential nominee Hubert H. Humphrey flew into Kentucky today, hot on the heels of Goldwater. He repeated a charge that the Republican presidential candidate's election would be "a death sentence for American agriculture."

Humphrey, whose plane arrived at Louisville's Standiford Field just 45 minutes after Goldwater made a hurried takeoff ahead of schedule, spoke to an airport crowd of about 500.

He then flew on to Huntington, W. Va., for a smiliar appearance before transferring to a smaller plane for a 50-mile hop to Prestonsburg in the heart of Kentucky's mountains.

President Lyndon B. Johnson relaxed today on his home acres at Johnson City, Tex., after a three-state tour.

Johnson displayed his horsemanship at Oklahoma City, mounting a palomino quarter horsee at the state fair and cantering around in front of several thousand people with one hand on the reins, the other waving a Texas hat in the air, Buffalo Bill style.

At El Paso, Tex., Johnson greeted President Adolfo Mateos of Mexico in celebration of a treaty ending a Rio Grande border dispute.

He spent the rest of yesterday mixing with cheering crowds and delivering speeches in Texas, Oklahoma and Arkansas.

At Liberty, Mo., former President Harry Truman, in answer to a question at William Jewell College, yesterday said Goldwater "knows nothing about the presidency."

"Just read his speeches and you will see he knows nothing about the presidency," Truman said in a question-and-answer session. "He's made an ass of himself all over the country."

Truman's statement came in response to a question whether the Republican presidential candidate was fit to be president.

Shakespeare Roles Being Recruited

Marin Shakespeare Festival directors already are recruiting to fill two of the most demanding roles in the famed theater's 1965 program — those of Romeo and Juliet.

Mellon Hunton, promotional director for the festival, said that the talent search is going on primarily in the colleges of the seven western states; other hopefuls also may apply to the organization directly.

The other two-thirds of next year's Shakespearean offerings will be productions of "Henry IV," with John Brebner as director, and "As You Like It," with Ann Brebner directing. Dion Chesse will direct "Romeo and Juliet."

Princeton Grad Now At Stanford

POLITICAL BRIEFS

Gov. Brown To Talk At Schultz Dinner

In his only Marin appearance before election day, Gov. Edmund G. Brown will speak at a dinner next Thursday night in San Rafael to honor Vera Schultz, Democratic candidate for state senate.

Peter Allen Smith, chairman of the Citizens Committee for Mrs. Schultz, announced that the dinner will be held at Dominic's Restaurant in San Rafael. Cocktail hour starts at 6:30 p.m., with dinner at 7:30.

"The governor will explain to Marin voters the importance of electing for the coming four years a representative who has the exceptional experience and record Vera Schultz has," said Smith.

Tickets are available at Schultz headquarters, 90 Throckmorton Avenue, Mill Valley; Marin Democratic headquarters, Second and Brooks streets, San Rafael, and Novato Democratic headquarters, Seventh and Grant.

CLAUSEN DRIVE

Rep. Don H. Clausen (R-Crescent City) will carry his campaign for re-election to Novato from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. Monday.

The Clausen motorcade will drive through Novato and wind up at Republican headquarters at 874 Grant Avenue, where the congressman will greet his supporters.

DC MO HQ.

Mill Valley Democratic headquarters officially opened today at 318 Miller Avenue, chairman Richard Van Horn announced.

Under the supervision of Mrs. Carmelita Crane, the headquarters will be staffed by volunteers Monday through Saturday, from 10:30 a.m. each day.

Four precinct captains and about 100 workers will be going house to house in Mill Valley this weekend on the Dollars for Democrats campaign.

SUNDAY AUCTION

A Goya etching (part of bull fighter series) will be among pictures to be auctioned tomorrow afternoon at Terra Linda Community Center.

The rare etching was donated by Ross artist Jose Moya del Pino. The auction, from 2 to 5 p.m., is sponsored by Marin volunteers against Proposition 14. More than 50 Marin artists are contributing their works for the fund-raising auction.

Rules For Dress Hit At College

College of Marin students were confronted this week with a change of the rules for dress at after-game dances and a feeling of something missing in the cafeteria.

There may be a protest march next week.

Paul Molinari, cheer leader representative on the students' executive council, announced he will resign from the council to lead the march, protesting the removal of the cigarette machine from the cafeteria.

He said he is also unhappy about the ruling that T-shirts, Bermuda shorts, Capri pants and stretch pants will not be allowed at after-game dances at the college.

On the cigarette machine, Dean of Students Irwin Diamond said that here will be no move to prevent smoking on campus, now allowed outside school buildings.

But, he said, in view of the recent federal government reports on the hazards of smoking, and the intensive health program offered by the college, the administration felt it should not be responsible for the sale of cigarettes on campus.

Cigarettes are sold in grocery stores a few steps from the edge of the campus.

TB Group Needs Volunteer Typists

Volunteer typists — and even persons without office skills but with time to contribute — are needed by the Marin Tuberculosis and Health Assn., chairman E. Warren McGuire said today.

The association is girding for the task of preparing 14 million Christmas seals for mailing by Nov. 16. Volunteers will be welcomed at the association office weekdays between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m., but groups wishing to work together are asked to telephone in advance because of space limitations, McGuire said. The office is at 1010 Grand Avenue, San Rafael.

Prop. 14 Foes Gain Members

Members of the Marin County Real Estate Board opposed to Proposition 14 held their second committee meeting Thursday night, the committee augmented from 25 to 33 members.

Chairman James Lamantia said petitions have begun circulating among members of the Marin County real estate industry for support, and the results so far have been "gratifying."

Al Corkland was named treasurer for the group. Next meeting will be Oct. 7.

ing parts of the world. I was so thrilled with Israel as a new and rapidly-changing and developing country. Here are some 30 countries that, in the last five to 10 years, have achieved their independence.

"The excitement of that plus many kinds of things—all the latest archaelogical development indicates that East and Central Africa were the cradle of man.

"That is related to my Galapagos trip last year. Each thing I do is sort of related and gives me more background.

"If I fly on a prop plane I can fly low enough to see the camel caravans crossing the Sahara."

She plans to go to the Congo, hoping to take a trip from Stanleyville to Leopoldville, and to Liberia, Uganda, Malawi and Rwanda Burundi. The prime minister of Malawi, Dr. Hastings Banda, is a tribal chief who studied medicine at University of Chicago while Miss Winans was there. "He's been a guest in my home so I hope he can grant me an audience," she said.

From Africa, she will go to India, Bali, Singapore, Australia, New Zealand and Fiji.

"I don't know if there will be another next time for Africa," she remarked.

Miss Winans said she doesn't mind a bit getting into a revolution because she was in one in Algeria when that country got its independence.

"I'm scared to death when I start off to an unknown place. For the first 24 hours I'm pretty miserable. But after that there are so many exciting things that I never have a moment to be afraid," she declared.

She has traveled about one-half time since retiring from teaching seven years ago. If she doesn't get tired, she plans to stay away seven to eight months. If she get tired, she said, she can fly home from any spot in the world in two days.

"When that lady got lost in the Galapagos I knew where she got lost. When they talk about Cyprus I can picture everything. Every time they say anything, I think 'Kilroy has been there'."

Miss Winans declared, "When I became 70 I decided that now I can afford to live dangerously."

fire areas is just beyond estimation," he remarked. "— the beauty of the Napa Valley, for example, or the land around Santa Barbara."

With Brown was Edward A. McDermott, director of the President's Office of Emergency Planning. McDermott planned to fly on this afternoon to the Napa-Sonoma area. His mission was to estimate how much of devastated areas is eligible for federal aid.

The governor and the federal Small Business Administration declared Santa Barbara County a disaster area yesterday, facilitating repair loans.

Brown said he hopes that in the next session of Congress some work can be undertaken to establish a program whereby the entire nation would share in the costs of disasters rather than one state — California or Alaska, for example.

On many ridges firemen battled the blaze in the eerie hush of zero visibility fog. The forecast was for more fog, rising humidities, and cooler temperatures.

The Santa Ana winds — which three times carried flames into Santa Barbara sections—have disappeared. No more are forecast. They blow from inland to the sea. The only breezes expected over the weekend are gentle winds from the sea toward the land.

The toughest section to control was on the slopes of 5,000-foot peaks at the east end of the fire, near the Ventura County line.

Earlier, the U.S. Forest Service thought the blaze had crossed into Ventura County. But a re-survey of the fire showed it still a mile inside the Santa Barbara County line.

SEW SIMPLE

Cotton Wrap Around Must Have Seam—Wool May Not

By EUNICE FARMER

Why do all the patterns for a wrap-around skirt have a center front seam? The new material I have wouldn't look as well with this seam. Judy M.

Dear Judy:

Most wrap-around skirts are made from cotton fabrics which usually are about 36 inches wide. For a skirt with extra width at the hem-line, the fabric would not be wide enough to avoid a seam at the center front. If you are making a skirt of this type in wool you can avoid the seam. Check the pattern with your fabric and, if it is wide enough, lay the center front seam on the fold of the fabric.

"KNIT NOTES"

I saved my knits from a few years ago and now find they need to be shortened. The prices to have this done are so exorbitant, I must resort to doing them myself. Please help me.

Mrs. L. M. K.

To you and all the gals who have asked this same question, I will outline several ways to shorten knits. Please clip and save for future reference.

SHORTEN AT WAISTLINE:

This is the least complicated and may be done if knit isn't too heavy.

a. Turn over excess length at the waistline and insert elastic. Be sure the skirt fits perfectly at the hip-line for these two methods.

b. Clip thread at the waistline for correct length. Ravel the yarn from this point on. (Wind excess yarn loosely around cardboard, dampen and allow to dry. This will uncurl the yarn and return to its original state.) Pick up stitches and loosely bind off. Crochet a casing at the waistline and insert ½-inch elastic.

SHORTENING KNITS AT HEMLINE: (HEAVY KNITS)

1. This is to be used for plain knits only (no pattern or ribbing). Clip thread at the new hemline mark and ravel out excess length. Treat excess yarn the same as above. Pick up stitches on your needle, bind off loosely and crochet 1 or 3 rows for finishing.

2. If you prefer not to crochet the edge, hand sew bias hem facing to the finished edge (about 2 inches wide), and turn hem up. This gives a smooth firm finish and prevents the lower edge from curling up or stretching. Loosely hand sew free edge of facing to skirt.

SHORTENING KNITS AT HEMLINE (MED. WEIGHT)

1. Mark your new hemline and make a second mark 3 inches below.

2. Pin hem tape to WRONG side of knit on the SECOND line of marks. Avoid stretching knit.

3. Machine stitch knit to hem tape BEFORE cutting away excess. Overcast this cut edge if necessary to avoid raveling.

4. Turn up skirt on the hemline, (you should have a 3-inch hem), fold back ½-inch from free edge and lightly slip stitch hem to skirt.

WRINKLE HELP

Mrs. Merlin Ruiter, Meservey, Ia., wins this week's Tailor Trix pressing board for this helpful hint.

"The front of a sheath dress tends to wrinkle in crosswise accordion pleats, spoiling the appearance of the dress. After being seated, take this excess material in your hands and make one BIG inverted fold. When you stand again, your dress will not have that 'sat-in' look. This has worked for me, try it!"

When I tried on my overblouse after the facings were attached, the neck was too tight so I trimmed it out. Now since the seam allowance has been clipped and turned, it's too big. What can one do with a neck that is too large?

Mrs. J. S.

Dear Mrs. J. S.:

I would suggest you remove the facing, cut a bias strip about 6 inches wide, finish the ends, fold in half and insert in neckline. This will form a soft, rolled collar that will fill in the neckline. After the collar has been stitched, finish neckline with the original facing.

Father Knows Best

Husbands who think their wives consider it their duty to buy the men's apparel too are doing an injustice, Ron Postal, of the National Council of Men's Fashions, maintains. Nine out of ten women with whom he has discussed this problem would much rather give the job back to the males. "They want more time to select things for themselves and their daughters, and feel that fathers should choose their own and their sons' clothes," he said.

Tamalpais Valley P-TA Gives Award

The Tamalpais Valley P-TA has awarded an honorary life membership in the California Congress of Parents and Teachers to Mrs. Jack Foisie.

Mrs. Foisie, membership and magazine chairman, has served on the executive board as library chairman since 1959. She spearheaded a drive for setting up a library and has been the backbone and pioneer supporter of it, starting the central card catalog system and setting up the Dewey Decimal System.

She set up work orders for equipment and materials and for volunteer help from parents. Many of her summer months have gone toward furthering her goal for a school library.

Mrs. Foisie, mother of three children, has been active in many school projects: carnival work, hot dog program, elementary and high school bond issues and tax elections. She was also instrumental in obtaining a classroom fund for teachers to buy incidentals.

She is active in the Neighborhood Homeowners' Assn., never failing to volunteer her services for the three or four fund raising projects the association has every year for the upkeep of the children's playground. She is also known to hold a record, not yet equalled, in signing up the most members for the Tamalpais Valley Improvement Club. For many years she was a Bluebird leader.

For an honorary life membership $25 is sent in the name of the recipient to a student loan fund set up for students above high school level who would be unable to continue their higher education without help.

Mrs. Edmond Gross of the Mill Valley School District board presented the pin to Mrs. Foisie.

Tamalpais Club To Hear Warden

"The Correctional Process As It Relates To Our Social System" will be the topic of a talk by San Quentin Warden L. E. Wilson at the 2 p.m. meeting of Tamalpais Centre Women's Club on Oct. 2.

L. E. Wilson

Mr. Wilson, who has been active in the field of penology for 25 years, was born in Broken Bow, Nebr. He was graduated from the University of Nebraska with a bacheior's degree in education and a master's degree in school administration. Later, he did course work toward a doctor's degree there and at the University of California.

He also served for 10 years as superintendent of public schools in Nebraska.

In 1944, Warden Wilson came to California as vocational counselor in the diagnostic clinic at San Quentin and served as supervisor of vocational instruction.

In 1947, he was appointed acting warden at the state prison at Soledad.

Warden and Mrs. Wilson have a son, Larry E. Wilson, who is personnel officer for the federal government at Sacramento, and two grandchildren.

The Women's Club executive board will meet at 11 a.m., and a business meeting will follow at 1 p.m.

Mrs. Clarence Herkner, tea chairman, will be assisted by Mesdames William Courtright, James Campbell, J. W. Carrothers, Walter Liebert and Ralph Holchester.

ALERT REPORT

Uncle Sam Has Advice For Sitters Who Snooze

WASHINGTON (UPI) — There you are, Jane Doe, all-American baby-sitter.

You've subdued the goblins the youngsters declared they heard outside the bedroom. You've gotten the little rascals off to slumberland with sleepy-time stories that were so convincing.

So much so, in fact, that there you sit in the quiet of the living room, fighting off the sandman. If the parents return, they'll find you sleeping on the job.

WHAT TO DO? It's simple. Just turn to page 41 of a new opus from experts in Uncle Sam's Children's Bureau.

On Page 41, there begins instruction seldom mentioned in a baby-sitter's guide—"how to stay awake."

"Although a few parents won't object to a sitter sleeping on the job—especially late at night—it's not such a good idea," the Children's Bureau cautions in the guide.

"Imagine how you would feel if anything went wrong while you were asleep."

Opera Highlights Trip

By MOLLY MARIN

After spending six weeks in Italy and France, the Gino Morenas of Kentfield have returned home to Marin. While in Italy they attended the opera performances at the Caracella ruins in Rome and Teatro Fenice in Venice, and they also visited La Scala in Milan, the San Carlo Opera in Naples and Teatro Massimo in Palermo, enjoying the productions with special interest, as Mrs. Morena is a former member of the San Francisco and Metropolitan Opera companies.

During their stay in Rome they were received in special audience by Pope Paul VI at Castel Gondolfo. Returning with them to Marin is their niece, Maria Luisa Bruno of Palermo, who entered Redwood High School this month. A musician herself, Maria Luisa will attend the San Francisco Opera with her uncle and aunt during the season.

THE ROYCE Nichols Kepharts of Traverse City, Mich., and their daughters, Nan Christine and Jean Marie, will arrive in Marin Thursday to visit his uncle, Walter D. Kephart of San Anselmo. Royce Kephart is president of his state pharmaceutical association and will attend the druggists convention in San Francisco.

IN MARIN FOR a month visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert G. Moore of Scott Highlands, Mill Valley, is Mrs. James Bell with her husband and sons, Robbie, 3, and Rikkie, 2.

The Bells have come from a year at Saipan, where Mr. Bell has been employed with the Pacific Micronesian Line. Before that they were two years on Guam, and on leaving Mill Valley next week will return to Guam for three years.

The water is warmer at Saipan than at Honolulu, and the family swam every day or sometimes twice a day, Mrs. Bell reports.

"It was a wonderful place to get away from tension because there are only 800 cars on the island so that you never pass more than five or six. There is no television, and we had to make all our own clothes or order them from catalogues, for there are no stores there. There are 65 families from the United States on the island, and social life consists of going to the club for dinner and bridge parties. Movies are shown three times a week," she says.

The Moores are now on vacation in Hawaii and will return next week before the Bells leave.

Dedicated Birchers Stirring In Marin

Exchange of ideas in open forum and an occasional heated debate are to be expected, especially in an election year.

But when the debaters and/or listeners create such a commotion (not applause) that invited speakers are drowned out and the moderator has trouble restoring order, then it becomes a shouting match that can turn to disorder or even to violence.

When responsible speakers are invited to a public debate by a responsible organization in an orderly setting, the speakers deserve the courtesy, at least of being allowed to complete their sentences, regardless of how members of the audience react to the ideas expressed.

We don't say the William Weissich vs. Alvin Goldstein debate in a San Anselmo church a couple weeks ago got out of hand. But it came pretty close. Mr. Goldstein, representing President Johnson, was drowned out by jeering and hooting in the middle of a sentence.

It was akin to the hooting that interrupted Governor Rockefeller at the Cow Palace before a TV audience a couple months ago.

The crowd reaction at the Weissich-Goldstein debate may not have been terrifying, but it was disturbing.

But even more disturbing are rumbles we've been hearing lately that some citizens with far-right leanings are not satisfied with Mr. Weissich; that they think he is "too soft" in defense of Senator Goldwater and his attack on the opposition.

As far as we can gather, Mr. Weissich isn't "soft" in any argument on which he takes a stand. And he wasn't soft that night.

The only way you could attribute softness to him would be to charge that he doesn't pound his fist on the table and punch the opposition in the nose. If physical violence is the only criterion, then Mr. Weissich may be "soft," because we've never seen him ruffled or raise his voice unduly in the heat of any argument. His tongue can slice and pierce, but his bearing is a picture of correctness.

We believe he gave a fine account of himself as a faithful exponent of Senator Goldwater's ideas—less government control, more private initiative, and that matters such as civil rights in public establishments should be state or local controlled and not dictated by the federal government.

But some members of the audience went further. They began interrupting the speakers, especially when Mr. Goldstein had the floor.

Right after the debate, Mr. Goldstein charged that "self-proclaimed members of the Marin County John Birch Society are fervently supporting the candidacy of Barry Goldwater" and that their participation was becoming "insidious and destructive."

Goldwater supporters who came to back Mr. Weissich that night were certainly not predominantly Birchers. But Mr. Goldstein was correct in saying that members of the Birch Society were among them.

At least two identified themselves as Birchers. When Mr. Goldstein spoke out against those who would "Impeach Earl Warren," one Bircher yelled, "Why not?"

There is little doubt that Marin has dedicated members of the Birch Society who would follow the lead of Robert Welch in impeaching Chief Justice of the Supreme Court Earl Warren and condemning General Eisenhower as a "stooge" of the communist conspiracy. Those are the dictates of Mr. Welch as outlined in his publications. And any true Bircher would follow those dictates because the Birch organization demands loyalty to the leader, Mr. Welch.

It is clear that among the vigorous supporters of Senator Goldwater are members of the Birch Society, led by Mr. Welch of Belmont, Mass.

This is not just something that's happening in Belmont, from where Mr. Welch grinds out his literature to give direction to his followers. It is happening right in Marin. The literature is here, dedicated members are here, and they are active in local politics.

The Republican Party, led by the conservative Senator Goldwater, cannot be expected to be a party of the Rockefeller-Kuchel moderates.

But neither should it be a party dominated by extreme rightists who begin to look upon responsible conservatives like Mr. Weissich as "too soft," and men like General Eisenhower as communist stooges.

Bouquets And Brickbats

A BOUQUET to Sausalito Police Chief Kenneth H. Huck for having the courage of his convictions to steer clear of the annual Policemen-Firemen Ball because it might fall within the category of "accepting gratuity."

BOUQUETS to general chairman William H. McDevitt and his committee for putting on the first annual Marin Invitational Tournament of Stars at Peacock Gap. They brought class and sparkle to Marin and aid to crippled and retarded children.

BRICKBATS to the series of miscalculations, change orders and "typographical errors" that increased the cost of the Hub widening project in San Anselmo by a whopping $25,000.

A BOUQUET for Pacific Telephone's 80th anniversary of phone service to San Rafael.

BOUQUETS to Marin firemen and volunteers who sped to the aid of our neighbors in Sonoma to fight the raging forest fire.

A BOUQUET to San Anselmo Planning Commission for going to two meetings a month instead of one. We hope this means an end to meetings that last half the night.

A BRICKBAT to the weatherman for going to extremes. Just because we praised him for "ideal" warm weather last week, he really poured on the heat this week.

A BOUQUET to Carol Murata of Corte Madera for winning the title of Miss Junior Majorette of the Golden West at the Sacramento Fair.

BOUQUETS to quick action by Mrs. Odd Amundsen of Corte Madera and friends, who joined to save the life of the Amundsen child who had fallen into a lagoon.

A BOUQUET to Richard S. Goldsmith of Mill Valley for being appointed United States Commissioner in San Francisco.

A BOUQUET to San Rafael Military Academy on its 75th anniversary.

32-DAY VIGIL ON SMOKESTACK ENDS

Perching on top of a 131-foot smokestack of the factory, where he worked in Okinawa, was one man's way of dramatizing work grievances.

But after 32 days atop the chimney, the 27-year-old striker ended his long vigil of protest.

Blackened by soot and grime, the disheartened worker described his prolonged stay on the smokestack as an agonizing one.

In trying to correct abuses, make sure you are on the side of justice. Ask yourself questions such as these:

1. Have I got all the facts, or am I acting on incomplete knowledge?

2. Am I truly interested in seeking solutions fair to all? Or, by taking a dramatic stand, am I more interested in drawing attention to myself?

3. Do I make a sincere effort to be constructive, or am I only a complainer and fault-finder?

Strive to be God's instrument by helping to settle differences rather than widen them.

"Blessed are the peacemakers, for they shall be called children of God." (Matthew 5:9)

Enlighten me, O Holy Spirit, so that I will think and act fairly, not emotionally.

I-J Accused Of 'Cute Propaganda'

Editor, Independent-Journal:

What a cute propaganda machine you run in your paper: "Four Marinites Give Life Chance To Mexican Baby" its only one of the many little "heroic" titles I have read in The I. J. in a relatively short period of time.

Mexicans may have some news for you too Miss Dorothy Simpers, It is not very nice to use humble people of any country in order to satisfy "our blessed ego". To the average American, the Mexican Medical Profession might look pretty stupid after reading your article, but any obscure M. D. in Mexico would laugh of what you call a "miracle". If that is what you understand for "amigos" at least give us a chance to invite you in.

District Attorney And Crime News

Editor, Independent-Journal:

Your editorial of Sept. 18 appears to be a one-sided article designed to give our District Attorney a black eye, when in fact the I-J should share, if not take all of, the dark tint. I was as incensed as anyone about the hit and run in Greenbrae, and Mr. Lee's subsequent lawsuit against the good samaritan. The I-J, however, is helping Mr. Lee beat his due justice under the law by its sensational subjective articles, in giving rise to defense arguments that Mr. Lee has already been tried and convicted by the I-J, and that it would be impossible to obtain a fair trial in Marin County due to prospective jurors being prejudiced by what they read in the I-J. If I recall correctly, this happened in the Sausalito ice-pick case.

The D. A. has to prove his case beyond a doubt in the objective atmosphere of the courtroom, and I suspect that your definition of AMPLE evidence and the court's laws of admissible evidence are quite different. Your statement that "you can hear it said in Marin, offenders are dealt with NOT according to their offense but according to who they are" is an ambiguous one. If you listen to the right people you can hear anything you want to about any subject.

I fully realize that as a privately owned newspaper you don't have to be fair and impartial, but in being unfair, whether toward a criminal defendant or public servant, you cease to be of public service. Trial by I-J is wrong. I'm sure I speak for a majority of your readers as well as my family when I ask for more objective reporting of facts, and less coloring of them.

In closing I ask, can the I-J take constructive criticism, and print it, or will it go in the round file on the floor next to the editor's desk?

'The Truth Shall Make Us Free'

Editor, Independent-Journal:

Hooray for the I-J! Your editorial of Sept. 18 on the D. A. clamping down on crime information rings the bell. What reason does the District Attorney give for hiding the facts from the public? This is just the censorship that leads people to say our news is being managed.

Is this the answer our public officials have to solving the lawlessness in our streets? . . . Don't print it—maybe it will go away!

We have a candidate running for a national office who says, "The growing menace in our country to personal safety for life, limb, and property is the mounting concern, or should be, of every thoughtful citizen in the United States."

For those humanitarians who say, "It is unkind to print news of crime," let us say, "The truth shall make us free!"

Maybe we should have the ostrich instead of the eagle for our National emblem.

'Shining Expanse,' Not 'Useless Mud'

Editor, Independent-Journal:

An open letter to Mrs. MacBoyle Lewis of Belvedere re Sausalito moratorium.

"Beauty is in the eye of the beholder" and the eyes of more than 1,000 people in Sausalito see Richardson Bay as Mr. Gilliam does, "A shining expanse of water," and not through your myopic vision, "A lot of junk, rat-ridden shacks, and useless mud."

The moratorium does not "pass the buck," but is a reflection of the wishes of the residents of Sausalito, recommended by the planning commission, and enacted by a conscientious City Council who listened to the voice of the people. Do not belittle the "conservationists." You, too, may be glad of an "assist" from them as you watch your shoreline shrinking! Perhaps, this will not be your problem, as you are blessed with having John Lord King in your backyard, with his great "architectural talent, unfailing good taste, and love of Marin."

However, any plan that desecrates the water and land use, that, in its vastness, is completely out of proportion and lacking all conformity with the surrounding area, is not an architectural wonder but merely a monstrosity. Sausalito has enough of these, so don't weep over her lost opportunity!

And, incidentally, one of our planning commissioners, after researching the area, found that the "useless mud" of which you speak is the habitat of some very interesting plant and fish life! Now that the moratorium is in effect, it is indeed a fact that John Lord King's name is synonymous with conservation in Sausalito.

Big Bouquet To Sausalito Council

Editor, Independent-Journal:

In passing out bouquets to Belvedere City Council and Larkspur City Council in the Sept. 5 I-J. I couldn't help but wonder why you didn't think the Sausalito City Council deserved a bouquet or even an orchid for the 26½ cent tax rate reduction they granted.

Johnson, Goldwater Should Spell Out Answers To Issues

WASHINGTON (AP) — One of the troubles with this presidential campaign is the issues.

They're scattered all over the lot and President Lyndon B. Johnson and Sen. Barry M. Goldwater are not spelling out answers clear enough to keep in your head.

There are two issues above all.

First—and obviously this is always the No. 1 issue in any campaign—is which man can be best trusted with the presidency?

THE DEMOCRATS are doing their best to get across an idea that Goldwater is too reckless to be trusted with it at all.

Goldwater is helping to keep the issue alive for them by endlessly insisting he is not trigger-happy.

Second—do the people want a broad federal government involved with the states and many federal programs, particularly programs for the general welfare?

JOHNSON INSISTS big government is necessary. He said so again this week.

Goldwater has built much of his claim on the presidency in plugging for states' rights. He wants less federal government, more dependence on states and local communities to do what's needed, and less, not more or broader, social welfare programs. Those are the two main issues.

But if voters are getting bored listening to the arguments it's because the two men have been talking in such broad generalities it's hard to pin them down on what they'd do.

ABOUT THE TWO most specific things Goldwater has said have been his promises to end the draft and cut income and corporate taxes 25 per cent over five years.

The Johnson administration has indicated it would like to end the draft, if it thought that possible, but so far it shows no signs of thinking so.

Johnson may have been disturbed that Goldwater's tax-cut promise had voter appeal.

This week he promised to cut excise taxes if elected. He is not promising an income tax cut.

HE JUST GOT an 11.5-billion-dollar tax cut through Congress this year, a tax cut Goldwater voted against.

Other issues have also been treated as major ones.

For instance, Goldwater has said one of the major issues would be corruption in government. He has been banging away at that, but always obliquely.

He mentioned the Bobby Baker and Billie Sol Estes cases, "government contracts not going to the lowest bidders," and a "cloud of scandal over the White House."

BUT SO FAR with Goldwater these have been innuendoes. He hasn't shown specifically their connection with the White House.

Johnson, a tough and seasoned politician, is ignoring the insinuations.

He may think it smarter not to help Goldwater keep these points in the public mind by answering the senator or talking of them.

Goldwater has called "foreign policy a major issue in this campaign" and insisted "it must be discussed."

HE HAS BEEN critical of the administration's handling of Vietnam, Laos, communism, Cuba, the Berlin wall.

How would he solve them? Here again he is not specific. The Democratic administration which has been wrestling with these problems, isn't promising flat victories.

Since the campaign is still young, maybe Johnson and Goldwater will get down to cases before it's over.

BARKER ON CHINA

'Blue Ants' Concept Is Found Misleading

By GEORGE BARKER

SEVERAL YEARS AGO someone, noting the uniform blue color of Chinese clothing at that time and the people's seemingly tireless regimentation on farm and irrigation projects, coined the name "blue ants" for the Chinese people. The name stuck, but it is misleading.

It implies thoughtless, eager obedience, a lack of individuality, and a uniformness which the Communists might like to enforce, but which is beyond their wildest dreams in a country as diverse in religion, language, custom and temperament as China. Mao's regime has done an unprecedented job of welding together a great number of racial and cultural entities into one nation. But it had to be a patchwork job.

There are more than 100 languages spoken in China today, if one includes the dialects and sub-dialects. In this mountainous land of many self-contained villages, the people in the next village often have trouble understanding each other. Through the years the remote villages have developed dialects within dialects.

CHINESE CALLIGRAPHY is fairly universal, but this is a bit misleading, for there is a written langauge for the scholar and one for the common folk. And there are important differences in the uses of words from province to province. The written language can be understood by any literate Chinese, however, but in speech it is broken up into a series of dialects as different as French, German and English. This is a result of having an ideographic rather than a phonetic written language.

Most Chinese are convinced that they speak the true Han language—classical Chinese—and that all others are corruptions. I've had two Cantonese tutors. One was a slim, trim little lady from Tientsin in North China. Her native tongue was Mandarin, but she was also proficient in Cantonese, French and English. She assured me that Cantonese was a corrupt form of Mandarin, caused by the northern Chinese mingling with the barbarian tribes of South China centuries ago.

My other tutor was a Cantonese, a graduate of Stanford, and likewise a cultured person. Mandarin, he said, was a corruption of Cantonese; that, when the Mongols invaded China in the 13th Century, the cultivated people fled south, taking their pure language with them. The Mongols and the Manchus with their lazy tongues soon changed the classical speech up north to the tongue we call Mandarin.

WHO IS RIGHT? I don't know. Probably there is some truth to both stories. I merely mention it here to show how provinciality extends to even the educated classes. Among the undereducated, it amounts almost to race prejudice.

In temperament the northerner is like the Swedes — a bit reserved, stiff and austere until you get to know him. The southerner is more like the Italians—open, friendly, happy, and a little bit quick-tempered.

The Chinese press makes much of the fine treatment generously accorded the minority races, such as the Tibetans and the various tribes of Inner Mongolia. Everybody loves everybody else — except the reactionaries. I don't believe it. Feelings are too deep-seated.

It is interesting that, when Mao designated his successor, he chose, out of 700 million people, Liu Shao-chi, an old comrade from his native province of Honan.

WASHINGTON — A Warren Commission member recently held Lee Harvey Oswald's 6.5/mm. Italian carbine. He leveled it at an imaginary target, peeped through the four-power telescopic sight and pulled the trigger. "It would be hard to miss with this sight," he said.

All seven members of the special commission that investigated the assassination of President John F. Kennedy have inspected the accused assassin's $19.95 rifle. They've looked down from the sixth floor window of the Texas school book depository in Dallas to the open street below, where the Nov. 22 motorcade murder took place.

They've run their hands across the bullet-scarred windshield taken from the presidential limousine. They've read Oswald's letters and diary, and handled the blood-stained clothes he was wearing when Jack Ruby shot him in a Dallas jail.

They've heard more than 200 witnesses having information relating to the assassination, and pored over tons of evidence amassed by special investigators, and the FBI.

In the nine-month investigation, the commission has tried to sift fact from fiction, and trace every rumor—no matter how bizarre—to its origin.

The unusual investigation, unparalleled in American history, is now at an end. The commission believes it knows all that can be known about the assassination.

The report was originally planned for completion last March. But it incurred repeated delays as a tide of skepticism and charges of conspiracy here and abroad forced the panel to expand its probe and meticulously examine each new rumor.

Widespread distribution of books and articles asking such disturbing questions as "who really killed Kennedy?" also increased pressure on the commission to produce a thorough report.

President Lyndon B. Johnson created the commission to probe "all the facts and circumstances relating to the assassination of the late president, John F. Kennedy, and the subsequent violent death of the man charged with the assassination."

It was instructed "to satisfy itself that the truth is known as far as it can be discovered," and "to report its findings and conclusions . . . to the world."

Chief Justice Earl Warren was named chairman of the body that also included Sen. John S. Cooper (R-Ky.), Sen. Richard B. Russell (D-Ga.), Rep. Hale Boggs (D-La.), Rep. Gerald Ford (R-Mich.), Allen Dulles, former director of the Central Intelligence Agency, and John J. McCloy, a New York banker.

Warren, who reluctantly accepted the appointment, was allowed to conduct the investigation as he saw fit. With no historical precedent to draw from, the chief justice built it around legal approaches and gave it a judicial air seldom encountered outside the U. S. Supreme Court.

LBJ GETS REPORT—Chief Justice Earl Warren and members of his special commission turn over to President Lyndon B. Johnson a report on the Nov. 22 assassination of President John F. Kennedy. They are (from left) John J. McCloy, Sen. Richard Russell (D-Ga.), Rep. Gerald Ford (R-Mich.), Warren, Johnson, Allen Dulles, Sen. John Sherman Cooper (R-Ky.) and Rep. Hale Boggs (D-La.). In background at left is the commission counsel, J. Lee Radkin. (AP Wirephoto)

Beginning with the testimony of Mrs. Marina Oswald, wife of the accused assassin, almost the entire investigation was conducted in judicial secrecy. Rarely were newsmen permitted inside the commission's rented fourth floor hearing room overlooking the Supreme Court.

The commission even withheld the massive FBI report, compiled separately last December, pending completion of its own report. Only scant information was released on its progress. This has come mostly from chairman Warren's infrequent press conferences and from off the record discussions by some commission members or staff.

When specific details of the investigation did leak out—part of Jack Ruby's testimony, for instance—the commission started separate internal investigations to find the source. The staff is convinced the leaks came from persons outside the commission having prior access to certain materials. With customary reticence, Chief Counsel J. Lee Rankin, a former U.S. solicitor general, declined to confirm tha tthe investigation was almost finished. Senator Russel, questioned recently by Dallas newsmen, would say only that "the work of the commission is over the hill and the end is in sight."

The summary report together with an expected 12 volumes of testimony was submitted to the president Thursday.

The findings will be released through the White House tomorrow. Newspapers will publish extensive excerpts, and at least four book publishers will reproduce the summary in full.

The summary report will be divided roughly into six categories:

1. Lee Oswald, his life, Marxist beliefs, stay in Russia, activities on the day of the assassination, and own murder in the Dallas jail.

2. Jack Ruby, his background and activities leading up to the fatal shooting of Oswald on Nov. 24. (Ruby, a former nightclub operator, has been convicted and sentenced to death for the murder of Oswald.)

3. The degree of protection provided President Kennedy on Nov. 22 by the Secret Service, FBI and local police.

4. Domestic and foreign rumors and charges of conspiracy involving "left wing" and "right wing" groups, foreign governments and gangsters.

5. Recommendations for improving the protection of the president and vice president.

6. Recommendations for better protecting persons accused of crimes that arouse public passions.

Aside from some interesting and unusual facts concerning the lives of Oswald and Ruby, the basic report will add little to what is already known about the assassination, according to a commission member. He said it will prove to the satisfaction of nearly everybody that President Kennedy was shot to death by a demented man, working alone.

"All of our evidence points in that direction," the commission member said.

He said the investigation has disproved reports that Oswald and Ruby were associated in the crime, that the presidential car was fired on from more than one direction, that Oswald was hired by the Cuban government or some other hostile power, that Oswald was murdered to silence him, that Oswald was a CIA agent setup as a scapegoat, and other such theories.

Whether the report succeeds in laying these rumors to rest is another matter. Because the accused assassin was killed before he could be brought to trial, a hint as to his guilt and possible accomplices will probably persist.

A few skeptics have already said the Warren Commission report will not change their minds. Despite the eminence of its membership, the commission has even been accused of covering up the facts.

One of its primary duties was to compile all available testimony pertaining to the assassination, under oath and while it was still fresh in the minds of the witnesses. Thus when historians look back on the event, they will not have to rely on faded memories or embellished, unsworn statements.

No similar investigation followed the assassination of President Lincoln. And a century later, the circumstances of his death are still clouded in doubt and suspicion.

Teamsters Offer To Support Johnson If 'Vendetta' Ends

By MORTON A. REICHEK
Advanced News Service

WASHINGTON — The Teamsters Union has discreetly offered to throw its support to President Lyndon B. Johnson in return for a halt in what Teamster officials habitually call the Justice Department's "vendetta" against the union and its legally embattled president, James R. Hoffa.

Right now, the Teamsters, the nation's biggest and most powerful union, are officially neutral in the presidential campaign.

"Before we reach a decision on whether to endorse Johnson," says a top-level Teamster official, "we want some indication of where he is going — whether he will continue Bobby Kennedy's policies against us.

"We want an understanding that we will receive the same fair and equal treatment that other labor organizations get. We'd like to give Johnson our help. But we don't want to knock ourselves out in the national campaign for nothing."

The alternative is a continuation of Teamster neutrality in the national race. Up to now, the union has been concentrating its vast political resources on behalf of candidates for Congress.

"That's where the laws are passed, anyway," says Sidney Zagri, the union's political and legislative director.

Says Zagri: "Our aim is to elect a Congress that will promote free collective bargaining by repealing repressive labor legislation and will expose the invasion of privacy and police-state tactics which have marked Kennedy's administration of the Justice Department."

The Teamsters can muster an impressive array of political forces. Zagri won't disclose the size of the union's political pocketbook, but he figures that the 1.7 million Teamster members represent five million potential voters.

Be boasts that the union's political arm, called "DRIVE" for Democrat, Republican, Independent, Voter Education, is a more cohesive organization than any other union's. It has 165,000 political activists who canvass for votes, push voter registration, and conduct study groups on election issues.

Policies to continue?

JAMES R. HOFFA

Zagri touts the Teamsters effectiveness in dealing with the white backlash issue, and suggests this could make an important contribution to the Johnson cause.

The Teamsters have seen signs of the white backlash in their own backyard. At a recent Teamster local meeting in Chattanooga, Tenn., 15 members angrily walked out when a business agent began denouncing Barry Goldwater.

Zagri also claims the Teamsters were responsible for the defeat of 13-term Rep. Clifford Davis, dean of Tennessee's congressional delegation, in his bid for renomination from Memphis, where the union has 6,000 members.

According to Teamster standards, Davis's record was anti-labor. His opponent in the Democratic primary election, George Grider, favors repeal of the Taft-Hartley and Landrum-Griffin laws.

Another primary election in which the Teamsters take credit was in Cleveland where Rep. Michael A. Feighan narrowly won in his primary bid for a 12th term in Congress. "Without the help of 250 DRIVE ladies working for him, Feighan would never have made it," says a Teamster official.

Feighan is already demonstrating his gratitude. He is a key figure in a move to get the House Judiciary Committee to investigate alleged "violations of individual rights" under former Atty Gen. Robert Kennedy's administration of criminal law.

In a preliminary vote on a resolution authorizing such a probe, the sponsors won out, despite opposition to the investigation by the committee chairman, Rep. Emanuel Celler (D-N.Y.).

Commenting on his success in carrying the resolution this far, Zagri says, "We have been able to make the Democrats realize that although they can capitalize on labor support locally, on a national drive we can get cooperation in special districts which can overcome the establishment here."

The Teamster drive for a Kennedy investigation is supported by conservative Republicans on the committee and has even received the backing of some notable legal authorities in the academic world.

On a local level, the Teamsters are beset by some serious stresses in the union's political ranks. In New York, where the former attorney general opposes Republican Kenneth Keating for a seat in the U. S. Senate, Teamster support is going to both camps.

The union's pro-Hoffa forces, particularly in the northern part of the state, back Keating. Hoffa's chief union foe, Teamster Vice President John O'Rourke of New York City, supports Kennedy.

Few New Faces Seen Among Office Holders

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — The "new faces" script for the 158 California legislative offices up for election this year should be a short one.

Of the 158 offices, including 80 Assembly seats, 40 State Senate, and 38 congressional, only nine districts do not have incumbents seeking re-election.

A number of these "open" districts are the result of the incumbent seeking another office.

According to past experience in California elections, few incumbents will be defeated. Assemblyman John Moreno (D-Santa Fe Springs) was nosed out in the primary election. The odds are that no more than two or three other incumbents will be defeated in November.

The election will find five state legislators and one congressman unopposed for their re-election. This is the same number that went into the primary election unopposed, although there were a couple of switches.

Sen. Luther E. Gibson (D-Vallejo) won both nominations for 15th District, as did Assemblyman Charles W. Mayers (D-San Francisco) in the 19th Assembly District.

Two senators, Stanley Arnold (D-Susanville) and Robert D. Williams (D-Hanford), entered the primary with no opposition but gained opponents via the write-in route.

Others who had no opposition in the primary and took both nominations to be unopposed in the general election included Rep. Philip Burton (D-San Francisco), Donald L. Grunsky (R-Watsonville), and Assemblyman John F. Foran (D-San Francisco) and Gordon H. Winton Jr. (D-Merced).

Two present assemblymen are seeking election to higher offices: Tom Bane (D-North Hollywood) running for the 27th Congressional seat, and Gordon Cologne (R-Riverside) running for the 37th Senate seat.

Prop. 12 Would Provide Tax Break To Victims Of Disaster

By HENRY C. MacARTHUR

SACRAMENTO (CNS)—Proposition 12 on the Nov. 3 ballot is a constitutional amendment providing for tax relief in the case of disaster victims. It would permit the legislature to provide, or to authorize local taxing agencies to provide, for relief, when property is damaged or destroyed by fire, flood, earthquake, or other act of God, when the governor proclaims a disaster area.

California has a past history of providing relief in cases where disaster has caused extensive damage. Many instances of earthquake and fire damage have been voted by the people after the disaster has occurred.

The amendment would, in effect, give the legislature the power now reserved to the people of the state to provide relief from unforseen natural disasters.

Opponents of the measure claim it is discriminatory, in that it would provide relief in some instances, and in others, the property owner would suffer because his loss was not in a disaster area.

They hold there is no logical reason to grant relief in one instance and not in another. The opponents also point out relief would be granted whether the property were covered by insurance or not.

Proposition 13 is a constitutional amendment developed primarily to counter Proposition 16. Should Proposition 13 pass, and also Proposition 16, the latter would be nullified.

Proposition 16 is the amendment creating a state lottery, and giving its operation over to a private corporation. Proposition 13 provides that no amendment shall be submitted to the people which designates any private corporation by name to perform any function or have any power, and that no such amendment submitted to the electors at the Nov. 3 election or any election hereafter shall be effective for any purpose.

Consequently, if the electors vote favorably on Proposition 13, they will nullify Proposition 16 should it happen to pass. Thus, the voters of California have two opportunities to defeat the state lottery proposal.

Proposition 14 is probably the most controversial proposed amendment submitted to the voters this year.

The amendment concerns the sale of private property.

The measure would not apply to obtaining of property by eminent domain, nor to the renting or providing of any transient accommodations by a hotel, motel, or other similar public place engaged in furnishing lodging to transient persons.

Mundt Calls Campaign 'Dirty'

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Sen. Karl Mundt of South Dakota got to his feet in the Senate this week and asked his colleagues "what kind of madness has overtaken these candidates for office?"

The Midwest Republican warned that as a result of their conduct "our image overseas will be so soiled and stained that the only loser will be peace and freedom."

He said the "cheap and dirty" language used by Sen. Barry M. Goldwater and President Lyndon B. Johnson could be compared to the heated exchanges between Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev and Red Chinese leader Mao Tse-tung.

"We all know in our hearts that Barry Goldwater is not a raving ranting demogogue just as we know that President Johnson is not a crook," Mundt said.

Johnson, without mentioning Goldwater by name, had urged a United Steelworkers convention this week to reject the voice of a "raving, ranting demogogue."

Earlier in the campaign, Goldwater had called Johnson "the biggest faker that ever was." He has referred to the White House as the "whitewash house" and accused Democrats of accepting "kickbacks."

South won the first trick with the king of diamonds, drew three rounds of trumps and led a spade to force out the ace. East returned a diamond to the ace, and South led a club, losing Dummy's king to the ace. Back came the queen of diamonds, and South ruffed.

DOWN ONE

South led out two more rounds of trumps but then had to lose two more club tricks. Down one.

You can probably name the criminal without even stopping to think, but can you say exactly where he went wrong? Decide for yourself before you read on.

South was the criminal but don't blame him for the bidding. It's quite true that South would make nine tricks at notrump without even breathing hard, but four hearts was a perfectly reasonable contract — and unbeatable if South thinks before he plays.

ONE ROUND

After drawing just one round of trumps South must stop. He switches to spades, losing dummy's jack to the ace.

Back comes a diamond to the ace, and South is home if he can get to dummy to cash the two good spades.

South can force an entry to dummy in trumps. He leads a low trump, losing dummy's seven to the nine.

WITH HONOR

Back comes the queen of diamonds, and South ruffs with an honor. Then he leads his remaining low trump to dummy's eight. He is in position to discard two clubs on the king and queen of spades.

South must eventually give up one club trick, but his other losers are only one spade and one heart, so that he makes his game contract.

It seems a pity to let East win a trick with the nine of hearts, but this generosity leaves South 720 points better off.

QUESTION

Partner opens with two hearts (forcing to game) and the next player passes.

You hold:

♠ A 10 9
♥ 9 6 4

What do you say?

Answer: Bid three hearts.

You can show the aces later, but your first step is to confirm the trump suit. Three small cards are ample support when your partner opens with a two-bid. With strength in three suits and two aces you plan to bid a slam even if you have to drag your partner there.

Paper Backs LBJ

HARTFORD, Conn. (UPI)—The Hartford Times, the city's only afternoon daily newspaper, today endorsed President Lyndon B. Johnson.

3 Hurt In Rear-End Smashups

Three persons were injured in two rear-end crashes involving a total of five cars within 15 minutes on Highway 101 yesterday afternoon.

Mrs. Tamsel Hug, 50, of 15 Durham Road, San Anselmo, was the only one hospitalized. She was in satisfactory condition at Marin General Hospital today with a cut inside her mouth and a sprained neck.

The California Highway Patrol said Mrs. Hug was the third driver in a chain-reaction crash which also involved a pickup truck driven by Wilfred A. Linehan, 58, of San Francisco, and a car driven by Marion A. Hood, 41, of 83 Woodland Avenue, San Rafael.

Also suffering minor injuries was Ethel Brandon, 55, of 175 The Alameda, San Anselmo, a passenger in the Hug vehicle. She was treated by her own doctor.

At 4:55 p.m., Charles W. Molyneux, 52, of 30 Millard Road, Larkspur, suffered minor injuries when his car was struck from behind about 100 feet north of the Richardson Bay Bridge.

The other driver, Charles D. Billion, 29, of 235 Marin Avenue, Mill Valley, was to be cited for driving too fast for conditions.

There are about 60 thousand bees in an ordinary bee hive.

2 Women Hurt In Accident

Two Marin women suffered minor injuries when one's car struck the rear of the other on the Alto interchange of Highway 101 at 1:10 p.m. yesterday.

The California Highway Patrol said Jill Ann Wedereit, 18, of 31 North Terrace Court, Tiburon, suffered a bump on the forehead, while Marguerite V. Roberts, 59, of 1961 Fifth Avenue, San Rafael, had a cut on the back of her head. Both went to physicians for treatment.

Miss Wedereit was driver of a car which struck the back of the Roberts vehicle as both were turning from Highway 101 southbound lanes onto Tiburon Boulevard.

Slayer Gets Life In Sentence Retrial

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Charles Earl Brubaker, 44, who was sentenced to die in 1958 after being convicted of murdering a mother and her son, pleaded guilty at a retrial yesterday and was sentenced to life imprisonment.

He has spent six years on death row.

'Marshal J' Mistrial Declared

A mistrial was declared yesterday in the assault and battery trial of Novato television cowboy Jay Alexander, better known as "Marshal J." A new trial date was expected to be set Tuesday.

The nine woman, three man jury was dismissed from Marin Municipal Court after becoming deadlocked, reportedly on an 11-1 vote in favor of acquittal. They deliberated for three hours.

Alexander, who lives at 2373 Dominic Street, Novato, was charged with hitting waiter William Capilos, 49, in the Spinnaker Restaurant, Sausalito, April 11.

Capilos has filed a $40,000 civil action against Alexander.

First Choir Places

Musicians holding first choir places for the semester at Tamalpais High School are Gwen Brown, Bill Hope, Devvie Donaldson, Walter Provines, Norma Powell, Bill Spaulding, Richard Caldwell, Rebecca Parlette, Brien Butte and Ron Turner.

Bail Bondsman Turns Man In

Gene Kissinger, 38-year-old former manager of the Black Market in San Anselmo and free on $2,500 bail pending trial Nov. 10 on a charge of embezzling $16,000 from the store, was surrendered to Marin County Jail Thursday by his bail bondsman after allegedly leaving for Sacramento without permission.

He was surrendered by James J. Shelley, San Anselmo bail bondsman, at 10:20 a.m.

Kissinger, an ex-convict, who moved from 555 Canal Street, San Rafael, to San Francisco last May, allegedly embezzled the $16,000 in money and merchandise while managing the store at 60 Redhill Avenue.

New bail had not been set at noon today.

'Spaghetti Sunday'

Teen-agers in the Mill Valley Youth Council will serve spaghetti, be in charge of games and provide music for the council's "Spaghetti Sunday," starting at noon tomorrow at Boyle Park, Mill Valley. Music will be by the Showmen, a four-piece band. Youngsters taking part in the old fashioned picnic are of junior and high school ages.

Unbelievable N. L. Race Developing

By MURRAY CHASS
Associated Press Sports Writer

"I can't believe it. It's beautiful, but I just can't believe it."

That was Dick Sisler's reaction last night to the unbelievable pennant race that has developed out of nowhere in the National League.

Sisler, acting manager of Cincinnati, had just seen his Reds sweep the New York Mets 3-0 and 4-1. The victories, coupled with Philadelphia's 7-5 loss to Milwaukee in 12 innings, shot the Reds to within 1½ games of the floundering Phillies.

No one has been that close to the leaders since San Francisco was 1½ back aug. 4.

The Reds have won six straight while the Phillies, 6½ games in front at the beginning of the week, have dropped five in a row for their longest losing streak of the season. The Reds, with eight games remaining, have lost only one more game than the Phillies.

Worse still for Philadelhpia, St. Louis has crept to within 2½ games and San Francisco to within 3½. Five of the Phillies' remaining seven games are with the Reds and the Cardinals.

Sisler, who took over from ailing Fred Hutchinson about two months ago, is happy with the Reds' present position.

"I don't think I'd change places with the Phillies," he said. "My team is loose and relaxed. They are tight. They're under terrific pressure. Less than a week ago, they had the flag all wrapped up. Now they can feel us breathing down their necks. They're uncomfortable."

As incredulous as Sisler might be, Philadelphia Manager Gene Mauch is even more so. At the same time, though, Mauch has a simple solution to his team's troubles.

"We have to win some games," he said.

That's what the Cardinals and Giants are doing. St. Louis defeated Pittsburgh 5-3 and San Francisco stopped Chicago 3-1. Los Angeles whipped Houston 7-2 in the other NL game Friday.

Jim Maloney, 15-10, allowed the Mets only one hit in the first game — Joe Christopher's single in the second inning. He permitted just three other baserunners, walking two and striking out eight. The Reds put the game away with two runs in the first on Vada Pinson's run-scoring single and an error by Al Jackson.

Bob Purkey, 11-9, and Sammy Ellis combined for a three-hitter in the nightcap. Frank Robinson cracked a two-run homer in the sixth inning, and Marty Keough connected with none on in the seventh.

The Phillies rallied for a 3-3 tie in the eighth inning on Johnny Callison's two-run homer and for a 5-5 stalemate in the 10th on a two-run inside-the-park homer by Richie Allen. The latter blow offset Joe Torre's two-run blast in the Braves' half of the 10th.

But Milwaukee ended it with two runs in the 12th. Gary Kolb singled, went to second on a walk to Gene Oliver and raced home as Eddie Mathews rapped a single off Frank Thomas' glove between first and second. Oliver then scored on catcher Clay Dalrymple's error.

Gaylord Perry, 12-10, pitched a three-hitter for the Giants, who put the game away with two runs in the seventh inning. Tom Haller clouted a homer with two out, and Perry later knocked in the second run with a double. The Cubs' Bob Buhl suffered his 14th loss while giving up only four hits.

Mighty Drake Gridders Run Wild

Bulldogs Bow To Vikings

By RALPH CHATOIAN

San Rafael High School's Bulldog gridders opened their home schedule on a bitter note last night, falling to the Montgomery Vikings of Santa Rosa, 22-14 in the S.R. stadium before about 1,800 prep fans.

Both teams fought hard through the game, but they fought too hard in the last minute. After a San Rafael completed pass with only 45 seconds left in the game, a scuffle errupted between San Rafael's Tim Witt and one of Santa Rosa's defensive backs. Before the officials and coaches could break it up, the benches cleared and everyone was throwing punches. It took about a half a minute to break up the melee.

After battling through a scoreless first quarter, Montgomery broke the ice on a dazzling 56-yard run by Stan Wise with 3:13 gone in the second period.

George Gosiak added the extra point with a kick through the uprights.

San Rafael stormed back later in that period with a big touchdown play of its own. Quarterback Jay Widmer hit end Joe Cunningham with a long pass that must have gone 45 yards in the air. The play was good for a 54-yard touchdown. Tom Gagen tied up the game with a kick for the PAT, his first of two successes.

Montgomery went ahead to stay in the third quarter, first on a safety and then with a TD. The safety came when San Rafael center Mike Donovan sent the ball over the head of Joe Cunningham who was set to punt from his own end zone. The ball rolled out of the end zone for an automatic safety.

With only one second remaining on the scoreboard clock, San Rafael scored its TD. It was halfback Don Curry who took Widmer's 11-yard pass in the left flat and stepped into the end zone. It made the final outcome a little closer, but the damage had already been done.

Montgomery	0	7	8	7	—22
San Rafael	0	7	0	7	—14

Montgomery scoring: Stan Wise 56 run, George Gosiak kicked PAT; Gene Smith, 2 run, kick failed; John Zimmerman 11 pass from Gary Stephenson, Gosiak kicked PAT; safety on San Rafael punt attempt.

Pirates Smash Oceana

Warming up—if you can call it that—for their Marin Athletic League opener a week from tonight—the Sir Francis Drake pirates crushed the sadly-outclassed Oceana High gridders at Pacifica yesterday afternoon, 47-0.

The highly-rated Pirates, odds-on favorites in the MAL race, used their first string for only the first 10 minutes of play as Coach Bob Franceschini cleared his bench in an effort to control the run-away grid machine.

Drake's superiority was evident on the opening whistle as Pirate flash Dean Lazzarini took the kickoff and raced 90 yards to a touchdown. Lazz and the rest of the first stringers stayed around just long enough to make it 14-0 shortly after when Dashing Dean capped a 65-yard march with a six-yard scoring jaunt.

The second stringers made it 21-0, still in the first period, when Bradley Kritsky, sub for Joe DeMasi, romped 49-yards off tackle and added his seventh point on a run.

Drake tallied once in the second period—on a 58-yard pass play from Bill Ingram to Larry Stein, followed by Tony Rivara's PAT run—for a 28-0 halftime score.

FINAL SPLURGE

A scoreless third period was followed by a 19-point splurge in the fourth stanza. Ingram passed 20 yards to Mike Miller for the first score. Rivara ran 11-yards for the second and Miller rambled 24 yards for his second and Drake's final six-pointer of the day.

Drake piled up 414 total yards while the great Pirate defense yielded only 58 yards.

"Everyone looked good," said Coach Bob Franceschini, "In a game like this, it's hard to single out individual stars. Our defensive line looked great, real tough." He was referring to such hard-nosed chargers as Bob Edelstein, Bill Hickerson, Bob Foti, Doug Manuel, Rich Cohen and Bill Fletcher.

Only discordant note in yesterday's effort for Drake was 24-stitch facial wound suffered by sophomore first string defensive guard Bill Hickerson which is expected to keep him out of action against next Saturday night's league opener against Redwood at Kentfield.

Drake	21	7	0	19—47
Oceana	0	0	0	0— 0

Scoring: TDs: Dean Lazzarini (2), 90-yard kickoff return, 6-yard run; Brad Kritsky, 49-yard run; Larry Stein, 58-yard pass from Bill Ingram; Tony Rivara, 11-yard run; Mike Miller, 20-yard pass from Ingram; Miller, 24-yard run. PATs—Joe DeMasi, Kritsky, Rivara, Al Simontacchi, all runs.

Redwood, Novato Win

Giants Impressive; Big Game With Drake Next

Redwood High School's gridders, getting ready for their big game next week with Drake, scored an impressive victory over Ukiah High last night, 26-6, on the North Bay League team's field.

The triumph gave Redwood a 2-0 practice game record, the Giants nipping Montgomery High 7-6 the week before. And most important, it helped get the boys ready for their Marin Athletic League opener next Saturday night against the highly-touted Drake Pirates.

Tom Sather, a junior halfback who started out as a defensive back and punter, was the offensive star for Redwood in last night's game. He scored the Giants' first touchdown in the second quarter on a sparkling 75-yard run after picking up a blocked field goal try by Ukiah.

He also scored Redwood's last touchdown, in the final quarter, hauling in an 18-yard pass from Scott Murphy. Sather had his longest run of the day called back because of a clipping penalty. He returned a punt 80 yards to the end zone, only to have the play nullified.

After a bad pass from center on a Ukiah attempted punt in the second quarter gave Redwood the ball on the Ukiah 5, Dan Kelly, a 200-pound fullback, crashed through from the 1 for the TD. That gave Redwood a 12-0 halftime lead.

Halfback Dan Salata scored the other Redwood TD, this one on an end sweep good for 10 yards and the six points. Salata ran for the extra point, and the other PAT was scored by Scott Murphy, also a run.

Ukiah, blanked by a stubborn Redwood defense throughout the game, finally scored its only touchdown with only one minute remaining in the game. Dan Hook threw a 5-yard pass to Lester Treppa for the score.

Three French horses, Worden II, Master Boing and Match II, have won the Washington, D.C., International race at Laurel.

Hornets Shade Analy, 13-12 On Coontz Kick

The toe of Steve Coontz, a Novato High School tackle, proved to be the difference last night in Sebastopol where the Hornets nipped the Analy gridders 13-12.

Novato drove 70 yards for a touchdown late in the final quarter to tie Analy 12-12. Then came the kick for PAT by Coontz who had missed his first attempt for a point after Novato's touchdown in the second quarter.

First Novato six-pointer was scored by Ron Rowell on a 20-yard pass play from quarterback Don Phillips. The first half gun had gone off while the previous play was in progress, but an Analy penalty allowed the Hornets another play. They used it to perfection.

Analy scored its touchdowns on a 50-yard run by quarterback Tom Hagan and a 20-yard scamper by Chip Castleberry. Both kicks for the attempted PATs were blocked by the Novato defensive line.

Then with only two minutes left in the game, Novato put together its drive for 70 yards. Dick Otis scored the touchdown from the four. Then came the kick by Coontz, and happiness to the visiting rooters from Novato.

"Our line played real well," Novato coach Marlin Olsen said after the game. "That Analy has a good team."

Novato had its share of breaks. The big one was that play that scored the first touchdown for the Hornets on an "extra down" because of the Analy infraction. The Novato defenders also intercepted two Analy passes to stop drives.

Center Paul Kaehler pulled a back muscle and guard Greg Sulser banged up his knee, the only two injuries sustained by Novato. Neither appeared too serious, however.

The victory gave Novato a 2-0 practice game record before the start of Marin Athletic League action next week. The Hornets will open against Marin Catholic next Saturday afternoon at Novato.

San Rafael Man In Select Group That Sponsors Speedway Brutes

Time was when the Bay Area boasted only two men who sponsored the massive brutes thundering around the country's speedways at 100 mph and more.

Now a San Rafael man, Jim Wessman, has joined the select group formerly composed only of Kjell Qvale and Bev Spenser. Now Wessman, who lives at Peacock Gap (on the 13th tee), gets to sweat it out with these two other super-fans as their drives go tearing around the landscape in some of wheellands most expensive machinery.

Wessman's Genie Comet, for instance, is valued at some $11,000. When his driver, Dave Ridenour begins to wind it up to 100-plus, Wessman is torn equally between elation and apprehension: look at that baby go; oh boy, if he blows a cylinder now, bye bye engine!

Wessman estimates that it costs $2,000 to rebuild an engine. To replace the carburetors alone would cost about $1,200. In a set-up like this everything depends on the mechanical know-how of the team in the pit and the work that is done in the shop. Since Wessman owns the Lincoln-Mercury dealership in San Francisco, the largest in the country, this isn't too big a problem, but it's still money.

JIM DOESN'T really know how he got into racing. He remembers hearing about this hot young driver who needed a break. Then he met him, quite by accident, and that night when Ridenour's tail-lights faded into the distance, Wessman was behind him with a pledge to provide transportation and "maybe an engine or two, I forget."

It wasn't long before Jim was really hooked. Ridenour could really drive. In quick succession he won at Vaca Valley, the Player's West Coast Grand Prix in Canada, and in Stockton.

In his Spring win at Vaca Valley, the first driving for Jim Wessman, he set a track record of 148 mph on the straight-away and a time lap record of 1:26. At the Player's Grand Prix in Canada, he set the fastest qualifying time and a time lap record of 1:14. He set a time lap record at Stockton too, while he was winning both events. His most recent win was Sept. 13, at the Vaca Valley Grand Prix.

DAVE STARTED his serious driving in 1958 with an XK 120 Jaguar, then he moved up to a XK 140 Jag and for a time, was proud owner of a Costen Lister Jag which came in around $12,000, gift wrapped.

Ridenour has his own private theory about why Wessman is sponsoring him. "Personally," he said when we quizzed him, "I think what he really wants, is to be my relief driver. This is just a sneaky way to get behind the wheel."

NOT SO long ago Dave took Wessman around for a spin at Cotati and then he let Jim take over. Wessman wound it up to 140 mph before Dave tapped him on the arm and told him to head for the barn.

Wessman and Ridenour are pointing up to three big-money purses this fall. The first, in Kent, Washington, this weekend, had a $20,000 purse. Riverside, Oct. 10-11 is for $25,000 and third, the one they've really drawing a bead on, Laguna Seca, Oct. 17-18, is for $30,000.

BOTH DRIVER and sponsor are optimistic about their chances in these races against some of the finest pros from the East and Europe. Their new modified Comet engine tests out on the "dyno" at 380 horsepower. Mounted in a Genie chasis, the new engine promises the other pilots a thunderous run for the money.

Ridenour has long been acclaimed one of the country's hardest riding drivers. Wessman's sponsorship is all he needs to give him a crack at the big money. The next couple of weeks will tell the story.

NOW THAT the I-J has subscribed to "Lema's Lesson," a thrice-weekly feature by pro golf star Champagne Tony Lema starting Monday, I hope he'll put us on his mailing list.

You see, every time Tony wins a tournament he treats the press to a round of champagne. And the way Tony has been winning this year, the gentlemen of the press have been floating in the bubbly stuff.

I still think Tony missed a bet by not calling his column "I'm Forever Blowing Bubbles."

RECENTLY THIS column mentioned the prominence of the Lazzarini family in Marin football with the Cousins Lazzarini Dean at Drake, Rich at Terra Linda and Howard at Redwood high schools.

Well, up pops another Lazz—this one Ken, who recently joined the Terra Linda Pop Warner team. He's kid brother to Rich and cousin of the whole famdamily who appear dead set on replacing the DiMaggio baseball image from across the bay with a football dynasty of their own in this generation — for which, and with mixed emotions, hooray! But darn it—is there a Walsh, or a Gleason or an O'Shaughnessy in the house?

NEXT TIME you see Joe Ingrassia of San Anselmo ask him "How's fishin'?" And then run.

Joe went salmon trolling outside the Gate last Saturday and became miserably sea sick. Which was bad enough. But a bag containing the fish he'd caught broke while being carried off the boat and—splash—sank to the bottom of Sausalito harbor.

Hey, Joe, how's fishin'?

Treemen Record Unbeaten Season

Sohner Tree Service drubbed San Rafael Post Office, 7-0, at Albert Park last night to become the first team in recent history to go through the "A" Division of the San Rafael Men's Softball League with a perfect record.

In extending their overall win skein to 13, Sohner tallied five times in the first inning and then coasted to victory behind the tight five-hit hurling of Lou Perazzo.

Tars Rebound, Clobber Chico

By PAUL MILLER

It looks like Coach Dick Read's verbal punishment of his College of Marin Tars did some good if their 26-6 victory over Chico State Jay Vees last night means anything.

The Tars gained a step on the road to vindication in their Kentfield opener before about 2,000 fans on a comfortable Indian summer evening. The last time the sailors took the field it hadn't been so balmy: they underwent a 40-0 devastation at Menlo College Sept. 18. (They found out Read was a fire eater after that affair).

There had been no give in Menlo's line as there was in Chico's. Tar backs Rich Bottini and John Handly, both of whom weigh under 180, took advantage of the junior varsity's swiss cheese line. Bottini, a former Drake Pirate star, tallied three of Marin's four touchdowns. Handly burned off the yards between the goal lines, and wingback Craig Bond of Novato accounted for another Marin TD on a 52-yard pass-run play from quarterback Tom Zunino of San Rafael.

All of Marin's scoring was in the first and third periods.

SCORING DRIVE

It went like this: Marin took the ball after the opening kickoff from midfield, moved it nine times for two first down plays that included a 12-yard completed pass from Zunino to Bottini and an eight-yard slant pass from a split end formation to left end Bruce Thompson. Then, with a first-and 10 situation at the Chico 21, Handly worked the center of the line for four yards and Bottini worked the left end for six points. Bottini did it on a fake handoff sweep from the 17.

GAINER — Chico State's Frank Garrity gains nine yards in fourth period as Marin's Tim Corbett (14) and Pat Haven (54) move in for tackle. Leading interference for Garrity is Charles Banks (35). (Independent-Journal photo)

The non-conference contest was 4 minutes old. Mallard Watson's boot for the extra point was short.

Tar defensive back Dave Cericola made a key interception of a chico pass late in the first period to set Marin up for another end-zone assault. The steal was at the Marin 30. Cericola brought the ball to the Tar 45, from where Bottini picked up three yards across the middle a play later. At the Chico 40, Zunino let fly to Bond who reached back for the leather at the Chico 30. From there the 160-pound wingback, who's a tenor in the college's chorus, side stepped one Chico defender and at the five yardline straight-armed another; then scored. Watson divided the uprights this time, and the count was 13-0, Marin.

Bottini started Marin's offensive game in the third quarter with a 34-yard run from his own 35. Then through the line it was Handly for three, Bottini for four, Handly for five (on a key block by center Rich Congdon), and then Bottini for seven and the score. Thus with Watson's PAT kick no good, at five minutes into the second half, Marin led 19-0.

Bottini repeated his initiation of an offensive drive a few minutes later. This time it was a 23-yard run around his right end from the Marin 35 again. Then Handly again, then Bottini, then Handly, and so forth, until Marin was on the Chico two. There Bottini took the honors over Rich Congdon's back. Watson's true boot complemented Marin's 26 points for the evening.

From then on Read worked mostly second and third stringers, who were scored upon by Chico's Terry Torbahn. The state college halfback made it on a 10-yard run around Marin's left end in the fourth period. Chico's PAT attempt was unsuccessful.

Among the Marin linemen who played tough football last night were Steve Minutoli, 178-pound linebacker; Jim Morena, 180-pound middle guard; Bob Stock, also a middle guard; and center Congdon. Wingman Jim Schmidt earned his money last night as well.

The only other Marinite on the state college team was tackle Lewis Pruitt of San Rafael.

The Tars will meet the Vallejo Falcons in a 2 p.m. game at Kentfield Stadium next Saturday.

Gridders, Ball Players Different Breed; Animals Vs. Prima Donnas

Randol

Just how serious is a "serious injury?" In sports, it is apparent, the extent and effect of an injury depends upon several different factors such as the individual, the type of game, and the level upon which the game is played.

It is axiomatic that, most factors being equal or nearly equal, the team with the fewest injuries during a given season is the outfit that will land on top of the heap by the end of the year. It is interesting that the rougher the sport, the more body contact involved, the more injuries are minimized.

San Francisco fans are all too aware of the results of injuries to Giant baseball players. In a sport that involves a minimum of body contact, it is surprising how many sprains, torn ligaments and muscle pulls show up every year to cripple cherished pennant hopes. One wonders if training methods are "off base."

FOOTBALL, WITH its violent body contact occuring at the peak of physical effort time after time on a given afternoon, should leave the field strewn with wounded after every play. But this is not true. The bumps and bruises are there in spite of any amount of padding and protection, but the players hang tough, as the saying goes.

The obvious conclusion is that baseball players and football players are a different breed. Call it "animals" versus "prima donnas" if you will. Take either side and you've got an argument.

Unfortunately, football injuries are too often measured by the dollar sign. Wins and losses affect the pocket books of coaches at all levels, players in the pro leagues, and to a somewhat lesser extent, college footballers on an athletic scholarship.

IT WAS news to this writer the extent to which the rules go to protect our high school footballers. This year, no boy can wear so much as a piece of adhesive tape on his arm unless he has a legitimate scratch or cut to be protected. Officials are instructed to remove bandages and inspect questionable areas.

A player or a coach could cover up an internal injury, but fortunately the old breed of win-or-else high school coach is now a rare bird. Serious injury caused by playing a boy who should have been on the bench could cost a high school coach his job faster than a no-win season.

WITH THE pros the story is quite different. No coach intends to make a lifelong cripple of one of his men by playing him when injured, but you can't deny the influence of the dollar sign. No player who can walk on his two legs goes on the injured reserve list if supports and adhesive tape can hold him together for one more game.

Examples? There are hundreds. A Clark Miller can produce for the 49ers with his hand and wrist in a cast. And "old" Y. A. Tittle can beg to get back in the game less than a week after his ribs have been banged up. Roman Gabriel of the Rams walked off the field on crutches, but he'll be back fighting for his job (and his paycheck) that is threatened by the play of rookie Bill Munson.

One weakness that doesn't show on the injury list is flat feet, a malady that seems to have become epidemic in the 49er secondary defense. The Niner defensive umbrella has sprung some bad leaks in both pass defense and tackling, a fact that must be giving Coach Jack Christiansen sleepless nights. Coach Jack was an outstanding specialist in this area in his salad days at Detroit.

ST. LOUIS Cardinal quarterback Charley Johnson should have a field day against the 49ers at Kezar tomorrow. With receivers like Bobby Joe Conrad, Sonny Randle, Joe Childress and John David Crow to throw to, the air should be filled with footballs.

The 49ers will strike with their own blossoming air arm including the new passing threat from any back who may have his hands on the ball. On the hopeful side, the Niners can remember that they beat a good Cleveland club that held these Cardinals to a tie last Sunday.

Cards Bring Superior Air Attack To Kezar

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The San Francisco 49ers—elated by their first road victory in two years but hurting with injuries—will try for their second triumph tomorrow at Kezar Stadium against the rugged St. Louis Cardinals.

The two teams haven't met in regular season play since 1962, and haven't clashed at Kezar since 1957, when the Cards were a Chicago franchise.

St. Louis, one of the favorites in the Eastern Division of the National Football League, is tied with Cleveland for the division lead.

The Cardinals beat Dallas 16-6 in their opening game ,and battled Cleveland to a 33-33 tie Sunday.

The 49ers bowed to Detroit 26-17 before upsetting the Eagles 28-24 Sunday in Philadelphia.

Quarterback Charley Johnson gives the Cards a superior air arm to go with the strong running of Joe Childress, John David Crow and Prentice Gautt. Johnson has passed for four touchdowns in two games, three to star receiver Sonny Randle.

Quarterback John Brodie, off to one of his best NFL starts, has teamed with lanky flanker Bernie Casey to provide the 49ers with a potent aerial attack.

Casey has caught 12 passes for 288 yards and three touchdowns, two on Brodie tosses and one on a pass from San Francisco's run-pass halfback threat, Billy Kilmer.

Injuries have sidelined three 49ers — fullback J. D. Smith, offensive tackle Bob St. Clair and linebacker Bill Cooper. Ex-Notre Damer Mike Lind—who scored three times against the Eagles—will start at fullback. Walter Rock has replaced St. Clair and Ed Pine fills Cooper's spot.

Abe Woodson, the 49ers perennial All-League defensive backfield choice, will start the game on the bench as Coach Jack Christiansen gives recently acquired Ben Scotti a shot at the job.

The kick-off will be at 1:35 p.m.

GRID GIANTS WIN IN LAST 39 SECONDS

NEW YORK (AP) — Rookie Gary Wood scored on a one-yard rollout with 39 seconds to go and the New York Giants won their first game of the National Football League season 13-10 last night on a wild comeback against the underdog Washington Redskins.

The Giants, who trailed 10-0 in the first and were apparently beaten with less than two minutes to go, got a tremendous break when rookie Charley Taylor of Washington fumbled and Bill Winter recovered on the Redskins' 17.

After a pass from Y. A. Tittle to Alex Webster brought the ball to the two, Webster hit the line to the one. Following an incomplete pass Webster plunged to within inches of the goal.

Wood, who had played the entire first half, replaced Tittle and took off all alone around left and for the winning score before a crowd of 62,996.

Oakland Attempts To Stop Reverse Trend

OAKLAND (AP) — The Oakland Raiders, who shot to prominence last season after several years in the American Football League basement, will be trying to stop a reverse trend tomorrow when they entertain the Kansas City Chiefs.

Winners of 10 of 14 games in 1963, the Raiders this season have dropped their first two games and once more reside in the cellar of the AFL Western Division.

The Chiefs, idle last weekend, lost 34-17 to Buffalo two weeks ago in their only league contest to date. Oakland could climb over them with a victory.

Raider Coach Al Davis is hopeful he'll get his running game going again. Indicative of Oakland's subpar ground game is the fact that Clem Daniels, who set a league rushing mark last season, has averaged less than one yard per carry in 1964.

The return of All-League middle-linebacker Archie Matsos, out the first two games with a respiratory ailment, should help shore up Oakland's defenses.

Quarterback Len Dawson spearheads Kansas City's air attack, while bulky Curtis McClinton and speedy Abner Haynes are the principal running threats.

Flanker Chris Burford, who missed Kansas City's first game after undergoing knee surgery, has been given the green light for Sunday's clash.

The game will start at 1:35 p.m. at Frank Youell Field.

Concours D'Elegance At Peacock Tomorrow

The Peacock Gap Concours D'Elegance will feature 21 classes of classic automobiles tomorrow at the Peacock Gap Golf and Country Club in San Rafael.

Starting at 11 a.m., it will last until 4 p.m. It is being sponsored by the Marin Circle of the Florence Crittenton Home in San Francisco and under the sanction of the Sports Car Club of America.

Tickets are being sold for $1, with proceeds going to the Crittenton Home. Music will be provided by the Sacramento Banjo Band. Another feature of the day will be an Antique Fashion Show at 2 p.m. by the Fashion Collectors Ltd.

Trophies will be awarded to first, second and third place class winners and also to the winner of "Best of Show."

Terra Linda Puts Unbeaten Grid Mark On Line Tonight

After two victories on the road, the Terra Linda High School Trojans will open their "home" schedule tonight at 8 o'clock against Del Valle High of Walnut Creek.

The Trojans' home this season will be at San Rafael High School because the stands at the Terra Linda field are simply too small to hold the crowds.

The Trojans won their opener against Riordan 13-0 and then soundly thrashed Oakland Tech. by a 33-12 count. This will be the last practice game for the Blue and Golds who will open the Marin Athletic League slate next Friday against Tam.

A big Terra Linda backfield change for tonight will have Jack Baken at the fullback spot in place of Steve Frazzini, a returning all-leaguer. Frazzini missed a day of practice and Baken, working hard to win a berth on the starting team, showed head coach Pete Limm good stuff.

STARTING BACKS

Joining Baken in the backfield will be quarterback Gary Lieberman, left half John Edwards and right half Dave Bowman. Other offensive starters tonight will be Steve Machado at center, Norm Trondson and Dan Dobozin at guards, Dave Dukes and Doug Baker at tackles, and John Forry and Bill Hall at the ends.

The injury situation at Terra Linda is not bad at all, considering some of the other teams in the league. John Clifford hurt his foot in a trampoline accident and Tim Garvin has been slowed with the flu. Both are halfbacks. Linebacker Jim Crisp is not at full strength, but he'll play. Clifford and Garvin are listed as doubtful, but they might play.

In its first two games, Terra Linda has displayed a potent passing attack to go with its running game. The Trojans last season were almost entirely a running team, but this year things are different. Limm credits the return of Lieberman for this. The signal caller was a first stringer last year until he broke an ankle early in the season.

Del Valle lost its opener last week to Skyline 7-6. Limm scouted the game and noted the Walnut Creek boys are a well-coached team with good size. But the size factor doesn't seem to bother the Trojans who were also out-sized in their previous two games.

Limm plans to two-platoon his boys as much as possible tonight, but a few chargers will have to see double-duty. One of these is Pete Marcovich, a returning letterman from last year who was praised by Limm after the first two games. Marcovich is a fullback on offense and linebacker on defense.

TAMITES IN HOME OPENER TONIGHT

Coach Pete Belden's Tamalpais Indians, winless and scoreless in one previous outing, hope for better results tonight when they take their second gridiron exam of 1964 in their home debut at Kentfield.

Belden has shaken up his lineup for tonight's game against Skyline High School starting at 8 o'clock. After viewing films of last week's 12-0 loss to Riordan in San Francisco, Belden benched most of his returning lettermen for tonight's game and replaced them with youngsters "who seem a lot more eager to play football," said the coach. "The shakeup seems to have done some good." Belden continued, "because the whole squad has shown a great deal of improvement during practice this week. But you'll see a good number of the lettermen from last year sitting on the bench."

Skyline will be gunning for its second straight victory after upending Del Valle, 13-6, last week. Belden, who scouted the game, said "Skyline is a very polished team. They platooned all the way and play a real tough game. They're not afraid to hit. It'll be a real good test for us. We'll be outweighed and outmanned."

Tam has two men out of action from injuries suffered in last week's game — defensive lineman Bill Phelps, leg infection, and halfback Gene Howell, twisted ankle.

A junior varsity game at 5:45 p.m. will precede the varsity encounter — last practice outing for the Indians before they open Marin Athletic League play next week.

Tam's starting lineup tonight will be: le, Gary Stephens, 5-11, 180; re, Red Hilton, 5-10-160; lt, Mike Washington, 5-9, 166; rt, Paul Austin, 6-1, 170; lg, Brian Collett, 5-9, 135; rg, Marty Anthony, 5-9, 180; c, Larry Carpenter, 5-9, 156; qb, Barry Warnock, 5-9, 137; lh, Al Robertson, 6-1, 195; rh, Ray Stark, 6-0, 160; fb, Steve Hewett, 5-9, 160.

Mormon Temple Nears Completion For Bay Area

Open House Set For Oct. 5-19 In Oakland Hills

OAKLAND (UPI) — The Mormons, one of California's fastest growing religious groups, are dramatizing their success here with construction of a massive 6 million-dollar temple.

O. Leslie Stone, president of the Oakland Temple district estimates that the Church of Latter-Day Saints has doubled its membership in the state in the past 10 years to about 375,000.

The temple stands amid pools, water cascades and gardens on an Oakland hill providing a sweeping view of the San Francisco Bay.

After its consecration Nov. 17-19, it will serve West Coast Mormons from Fresno, north to Seattle.

When the Oakland structure becomes the 13th Latter-Day Saint temple operation, non-Mormons will be permitted to enter the garden but will not be allowed inside the building.

However, non-Mormons will be invited to inspect the temple interior Oct. 5-19.

Stone says Mormon missionaries, who cover the world, are having their highest per capita success in gaining converts in the Pacific Northwest and second best success in Northern California.

In addition to traditional doorbell ringing, California's 2,400 Mormon missionaries seek converts by "a referral system" in which names of prospects are provided by their friends.

The Oakland Temple is an impressive granite structure capped by five gold-leaf towers, one standing 170 feet above the ground.

In a Mormon temple, the main work is the performing of marriages "for time and eternity" and of baptisms by proxy of the dead.

At the Oakland Temple, six daily sessions with 180 participants in each are planned.

The participants, many of whom will travel by bus from as far away as Seattle, will change to white robes in marble rooms with stainless steel lockers.

Then they proceed to baptisms by immersion in an octagonal font resting upon 12 golden oxen representing the 12 Tribes of Israel.

After ceremonies in two assembly rooms outfitted for the showing of movies, the Mormons repair for relaxation to the Celestial Room, decorated in a light gold theme.

Stone says the Celestial Room is "the most beautiful room we know how to fix."

The temple also includes 10 marriage rooms, a laundry for robes and a 200-person cafeteria for which non-Mormons will leave food outside a temple door.

DEDICATION TOMORROW — Organist of St. Stephen's Episcopal Church in Belvedere, Mark Smith will play special program tomorrow afternoon following special dedication rites with Bishop James A. Pike and others.

Bishop Pike To Dedicate Organ

A dedication cermony for its new pipe organ and a dedicatory recital will be held at St. Stephen's Episcopal Church in Belvedere at 4 p.m. tomorrow. the public is invited.

Conducting the dedication ceremony will be the Rt. Rev. James A. Pike, Bishop of California, and the Rev. Llewellyn White, rector of St. Stephen's.

Mark Smith of Tiburon, St. Stephen's organist and choirmaster, will present the recital.

St. Stephen's new pipe organ is one of the most unusual installations in Marin County, a combination of the old and the new, according to Smith.

"Five ranks of pipes were retained from the 1903 Murray M. Harris organ in the old First Unitarian Church on the Berkeley campus of the University of California," he said. "These sets have gone through masterful revoicing and rescaling by organ builder John West so as to match the brightness and clarity of the new pipework. All the new pipes are imported from West Germany, as is the console."

The organ is small, consisting of 18 ranks with a total of 999 pipes, which are divided between the great, swell and pedal organs, Smith said.

The pedal division is completely independent of the great and swell organs, thus affording distinction to the bass line. The swell organ is enclosed with louvers to control the volume of that division. The great and pedal are completely exposed.

The organ speaks directly into the nave from its lofty perch in the rear, with no obstruction of sound.

One stop of special interest does not consist of pipes at all, Smith pointed out, but is made up of a set of tiny bells which are struck alternately and in quick succession by a metal mallet, thereby providing a ring of a very high and indefinite pitch which tops off the "organo pleno" sound. It is called a Zimbelstern. This was a stop common in the organs of most northern European countries during the 17th and 18th centuries.

Smith received his Bachelor of Music degree from the Boston Conservatory and his Master of Music degree from the University of the Pacific. He also studied for seven months with Cocheran, organist of Notre Dame Cathedral in Paris. He is a sub-dean of the San Francisco chapter of the American Guild of Organists.

The recital program will include the "St. Anne" Prelude and Fugue in E Flat Major by Bach; Sonato No. 2 by Hindemith; Voluntary No. 8 by John Stanley, a contemporary of Handel; Fantasia on "Ein Feste Burg ist unser Gott" by Max Reger, and Mode de Re by John Anglais.

For the formal dedication of the organ the choir, organ and trumpeters David Harris and John Siple will perform with symbals, Arthur Rhea's "Festal Te Deum."

They Find New Use For Old Glass

Little Ingenuity And Lots Of Heat Turns Bottles Into Bowls

Bottles make fine bowls.

All you need is a bottle, any kind of bottle, a concave mold and lots of heat, about 1,500 degrees.

The result is a piece of glassware that has more lustre and polish than the original glass. The bowl or ashtray will also be a conversation piece.

CONVERTING glass bottles into bowls and ashtrays became the project two years ago of members of the Mill Valley Redwood Guild of Sunny Hills. Someone, no one can remember who it was now, reported seeing bowls made out of bottles.

Members decided it would be a fine thing to raise money to benefit Sunny Hills. At the annual Grape Festival last year, 36 of the bottle-bowls went on sale for the first time. They were all snapped up by customers who stood in line at the booth.

SINCE THEN Mrs. William A. Flemming and Mrs. John Lennon have been working with Mill Valley potter Gwynne Peticoles to get a supply ready for the Grape Festival at the Sunny Hills grounds Oct. 3.

They have over 100 in stock now.

There were two problems facing the women that had to be solved before production could begin. First they had to fashion molds. The second problem was where to find the heat.

AFTER SEVERAL months of

BOTTLES BEFORE entering the kiln look just like any other bottle that you might chuck into your trash. But Mrs. William A. Fleming looks them over with a critical eye, wondering what kind of bowls they will make. The results depend partly on what mold is used, but the full results of the kiln process cannot be predicted. That's one of the features that give the bottles their charm. (Independent-Journal photo)

BOTTLES AFTER a 24-hour stay in a kiln come out in all shapes and sizes. Mrs. John Lennon holds one in her right hand, comparing it with a bottle of the same type that has not yet been melted. A champagne bottle gives one of the most satisfactory results, but Mrs. Fleming and Mrs. Lennon have tried all shapes and sizes, including a half-gallon wine bottle. (Independent-Journal photo)

PROFESSIONAL hands of Mrs. Gwynne Peticolas, owner of the kiln, are needed for the crucial heating process that will convert bottles into graceful bowls. Bottles ride high in the molds now, but 1,500 degrees in the kiln will change that. These bottles, converted to bowls since the picture was taken, will be among those on sale at the Grape Festival Oct. 3 (Independent-Journal photo) trial and error, Mrs. George Blackwell, a friend of the guild, suggested a formula for a mold that used an insulation material. This solution came also after members had done a good deal of research into glass and glassware.

Guild Women 'Bake' Bottles As Sunny Hills Project

Mrs. Peticolas and her kiln solved the second problem. Her kiln could handle 19 bottles at a time, so 19 molds were made.

"We were terrified in the beginning that our formula might not be right," Mrs. Fleming recalled. "We had nightmares of all the molds breaking during the baking and dumping all that melted glass into the kiln."

BUT THE bottles turned out perfectly the first time. Mrs. Fleming and Mrs. Lennon renewed their bottle work the first of this year, working their schedule on the kiln in with the professional schedule of Mrs. Peticolas.

Mrs. Peticolas, a pottery teacher at Tamalpais High School, takes the kiln up to 1,500 before she lets it cool off. The baking process requires about 24 hours.

"WE DON'T know why," Mrs. Fleming said, "but the bottles assume qualities of sparkle, clarity and depth after baking that are just not there when they go into the oven."

The bottle-bowls find many uses, perhaps most commonly as ashtrays. But they also can serve as fine fruit bowls.

The women of the guild suggest you come to the Grape Festival and see for yourself.

SURE AND it's an Irish Jaunting cart that goes on display in the San Francisco Bay Area Antique Show. The cart is from antique collector Jeanne Davis' inventory at her shop in Sausalito. Therese Blum, 2½, of Sleepy Hollow gets ready to get into the cart while model Laura Lambe steadies it. The doll already in the cart is also a member of Mrs. Davis' collection. Old toys and dolls are one of the many things that fascinate her. More pictures and a story are on the following pages.

"A TIP ABOUT THAT DIRTY SLEEPING BAG"

Most sleeping bags can be drycleaned satisfactorily. But here are two tips from the National Institute of Drycleaning. Make sure the bag has been adequately dried and aired so all fumes of cleaning solvent are removed from the bag's filling before you sleep in it. The ample drying cycle in a professional drycleaning plant is a good precaution.

Also inform your drycleaner about the kind of rain-proof treatment the manufacturer has given your bag. This will guide him in his treatment of it. The information should appear on a label or handtag which you may have removed from the bag after purchase.

IN THE MIDST of her shop, Jeanne Davis finds time for a little research into antiques. Collecting has become a real study, with many dealers making specialties of one period or of a single kind of furnishing. Mrs. Davis likes old toys, but you can see here that she does not limit her display. (Independent-Journal photo)

4 Marin Dealers In Show

THE DOLL in the center is 84 years old, but 2½-year Theres Blum of San Anselmo and model Laura Lambe of Sausalito both agree it is still loveable. The German doll, the early American rocker and the scale model, British locomotive can all be seen in the antique show which opened in San Francisco today.

Little girls love to play with dolls, but when a doll is 84 years old it has grown out of the playing stage.

Marin antique dealer Jeanne Davis of 493 Bridgeway, Sausalito, values her German Bisque Simon Halberg Doll as one of the best in her collection.

The doll still wears the clothing, hand-made in 1880.

Mrs. Davis is one of four Marin dealers who have exhibits in the San Francisco Bay Area Antique Show which started today for a four-day run in Brooks Hall at the San Francisco Civic Center. The hall is open from 1 to 10 p.m. each day.

Mrs. Davis, who takes special delight in old toys, will also exhibit a 19th Century, British locomotive built at a scale of one inch to the foot. It was built to run on coal, but the boiler was since punctured so some child would not be injured by a boiler explosion.

Other items she is showing include a postmaster's desk used in the town of Comanche in the Mother Lode country, an Early American doll in a high chair, an Irish jaunting cart and many paintings and examples of oriental art.

Dealer Katharine Sheridan of 539 Bridgeway, Sauaslito, who specializes in antique jewelry, is exhibiting a string of opals and a set of jewels that Civil War Gen. George B. McClellan presented to his wife.

She also has a four-foot high bronze statue of Napoleon. Because of its weight, she was not certain today if she would be able to put it on display.

Sally Trube of Sally's Band Box at 1820 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, Fairfax, specializes in old valentines, prints and textiles. She has one European valentine on display that was made in 1830. Many of the American valentines were handmade.

Her prints include hunting scenes and early California landscapes.

Nadine Cook of Tiburon is showing her collection which stresses primitive maple and formal Victorian furniture. She will also be showing some dolls.

IT IS A 1939 Bently, a perfect specimen, owned by Jay Heuman of San Francisco who will bring it to Peacock Gap for tomorow's concours. Those spoke wheels add to the elegance of the classic, and anyone who has owned them knows how much it adds to the maintenance and care of an auto as well. But car buffs agree the work is well worth the trouble. (Photo by courtesy of Gene Babow)

NEWER MODELS such as this 1960 Jaguar Mark IX, owned by Mr. and Mrs. Newberry of Pleasant Hill, falls into the Postwar or Modern classification in car judging competition. Car Show Through Eyes Of Judge

Gene Babow Of Kentfield Gives Concours Pointers

Ever been stricken with automania?

If you go to the Concours d'Elegance at Peacock Gap Golf and Country Club tomorrow, you will be exposing yourself most openly to the bug.

Those who have had long experience with automania say that the exposure of the concours show nearly always "takes." Don't expect to be cured, either. No one ever has been. No one really wants a cure.

TAKE IT from Gene Babow of 116 Laurel Grove Avenue, Kentfield, one of the judges at tomorrow's show.

"My own work covers about 12 years of concours, including restoration work and the presentation of antique, classic and modern cars. I have shown three of my sports cars at various times with successful results both here and in the Los Angeles area."

NOW A car show judge, a job that calls for a studious and most serious approach, Babow knows from experience that there can be some high humor in the hobby.

"Probably the most amusing experience was the time I opened the trunk of my car for a judge and the handle came off in my hand. It was very difficult to explain."

He recalls another time when an "ex-friend" backed into the fender of his car two days before a show. Another "ex-friend" spilled car wax on the seat of his car the night before it was to be shown.

BUT BABOW, like most car buffs, gets most pleasure out of the hobby by a serious approach.

"I have often paralleled the history and development of the auto with the history and customs of the country of origin. This is sepecially true in the classic era from 1929 to 1937 when perhaps the finest autos were produced. These cars even today are not out of style.

"The British Rolls Royce was a conservative example, both in style and performance. The coachwork resembles the horse and carriage era.

"THE FRENCH Bugatti, flamboyant and alive, seemed to enjoy its way of living. The German Mercedes was massive and always announced its presence. The Italian Alfa Romeo was avant garde — smooth and easy curves, very functional. The American Dusenberg was rather a mixture of all the above and presented its own character."

Babow, when he is not working on his cars or judging a show, works in the loan department of Wells Fargo Bank in San Francisco.

SETTING UP a show with a standard pattern of judging and classification is not a simple thing. The standards followed in tomorrow's concours have a background of 12 years of practice and adjustments worked out in great part by the Sports Car Club of America.

Basis of the SCCA system is authenticity and maintenance. It assures a car owner that when he enters a show, his car will be among the top autos in the world.

THIS ASSURANCE is vital in maintaining the quality of entries and in making a show worth while for the visitor.

Many problems are encountered in classification. Since autos are constantly changing as new models come out, the classes must be constantly be adjusted.

"Even now some postwar autos are approaching 20 years of age and are restored, making it unfair to place them in a class with newer cars," Babow explained.

THERE ARE three general classes — Antique — up to 1920, Vintage and Classic — 1921 to 1941 and Modern — postwar. These basic groups are further divided by price range. The final breakdown leaves 18 different classes.

Babow is credited with a concours policy that prevents the combination of classes for a show.

"This assures that an owner will not be forced into another class because there are too few autos in his own class," he said.

FIRST, SECOND and third place prizes are awarded in each class. If a class is large, it may be split, permitting awarding of more prizes in a class, but no class can ever be combined.

The process of scoring by the judges is also a complex one and usually involves three judges in each class. The judging is divided into three areas—exterior, interior and engine and chassis. Tomorrow's show will have about 18 judges.

THE JUDGES work against a point check list that provides a further breakdown. For instance, if Babow should be assigned to judge exteriors in a class he will inspect with five points in view—paint and finish, elegance, coachwork, chrome

WITH HOOD OF CAR raised, auto judge Gene Babow takes notes and he inspects the engine compartment of this Ford Mustang Two-plus-two. Babow, who has been exhibiting cars for 12 years, is in demand as a judge at concours shows. There are three judges who look at each auto before the points are added up and the prizes awarded. PRIZE-WINNING 1941 Continental Coupe is owned by William Schmidt. It will be tough competition for other entries in tomorrow's concours. Judges will not just be looking at surface shine and sparkling white-walls. That is only part of the intricate point scoring system developed by the Sports Car Club of America which has sanctioned tomorrow's show.

ANOTHER 1941 CONTINENTAL, this one owned by Stan Elliott of Concord, will add to the competition in the classic division at Peacock Gap. Photos of these and other cars gives some small idea of the job judges undertake when they begin selecting the first, second and third place winners in each division. and glass and wheels.

Each of these categories can receive a maximum of 6 points or a total of 30 points as the maximum that could be awarded by Babow.

HIS POINTS are added to those given by the interior and the engine and chassis judges for the total points given for a car.

The word "restoration" can often be a controversial one among car enthusiasts.

As an extreme "outside" definition of the word, Babow cited a man who built a 1946-49 MG-TC from parts.

"It was magnificent and perfect in every detail and won many prizes, but the purist will scorn this car because it did not exist in the records of the MG factory," Babow said.

BABOW SAID there is much research involved in true restoration and it is sacrilege to use substitutes such as chrome instead of nickel plating, nylon instead of canvas or lacquer instead of enamel.

Restoration can cost several times the price of the original car. The auto is dismantled, all parts are cleaned and replaced if necessary, and then reassembled.

Babrow credits the Horseless Carriage Club, the Classic Car Club and various single make clubs such as Packard, for their restoration research and for creating an interest in autos that have gone out of production. The Packard Club and the Rolls-Royce Club will be among those represented tomorrow.

TOMORROW'S show, sponsored by the Marin Circle of the Florence Crittenton Home of San Francisco and sanctioned by the SCCA, is the second annual Concours d'Elegance.

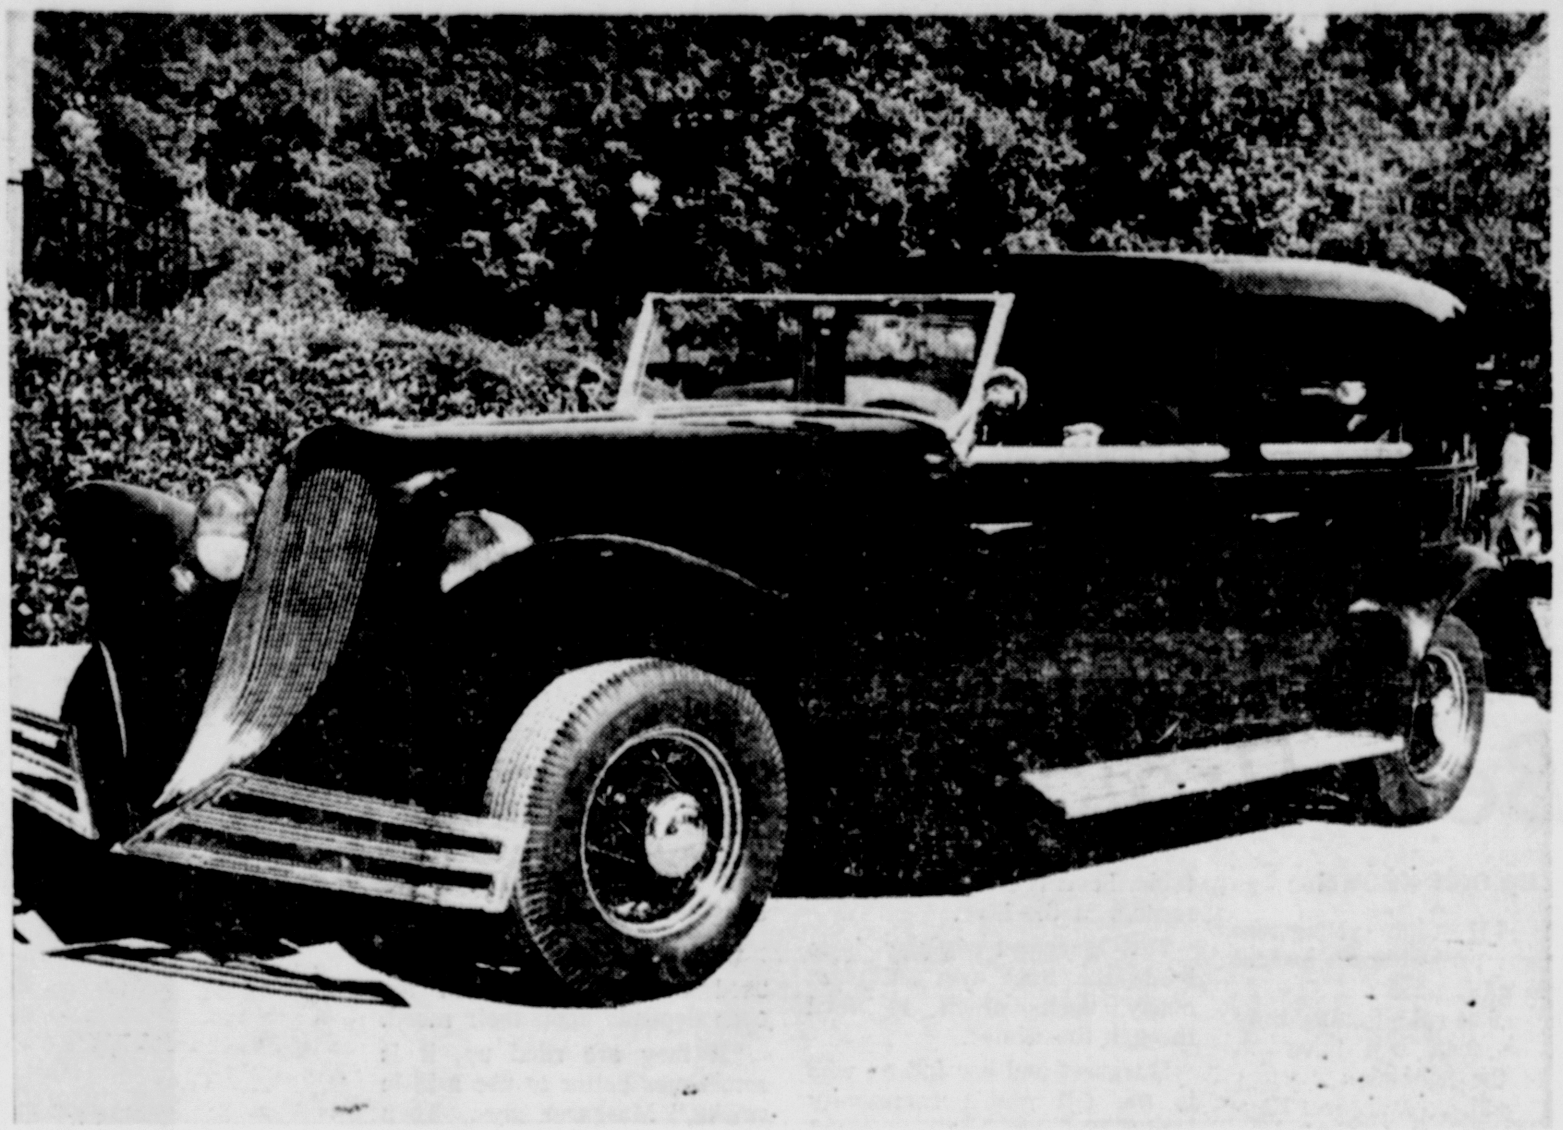
It will run from 11 a.m to 4 p.m. There will be prizes in 21 classes plus a grand prize. Entertainment will include music by the Sacramento Banjo Band and an antique fashion show slated at 2 p.m.

BABOW WILL be too busy tomorrow to answer many questions from the public, but he said the car owners are always glad to answer questions and talk about their pride and joy.

He just has a few words of warning:

"Look; don't touch!"

Remember that trunk handle?



THIS 1934 Brewster was once the property of Charlie Chaplin. It is now the proud possession of John Ritchie, San Francisco real estate man. The tour car illustrates Babow's contention that many of the classic designs still look very much in style. At the same time, this car was built for a chauffeur economy, now almost a thing of the past.

YOUNG BEE KEEPER makes a sticky chore look easy as she slices squares of honey from the comb. Margaret Hansen has harvested eight pounds for the family table, leaving the rest, about 75 pounds, for the bees to feed on during the cold winter months.

BEES ARE still working at filling this comb that Margaret Hansen holds up for a portrait. The two white areas on either end are cells that the bees have filled and sealed. Some areas of the hive are used for breeding cells where the queen bee can lay her eggs. The queen cannot enter the area where the honey is harvested. The entrance into that area is too small for her to pass through.

BROTHER ROBERT Hansen, 7, has nothing but approval for sister Margaret's 4-H club project. Margaret plans to increase here inventory of hives to six, giving plenty of honey for the family and enough to market for spending money.

Bee Project Buzzing

By DON KEOWN

Some 4-H Club youngsters build their project work around a single calf.

If they raise rabbits, they may have — or soon will have — a dozen of the bunnies.

But 13-year-old Margaret Hansen of the San Rafael Community 4-H Club counts her "livestock" by the thousands—up to 35,000 to be as exact as conditions permit.

MARGARET raises bees.

In her first year of bee project work at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William R. Hansen of 312 Coleman Drive, San Rafael, the Davidson Junior High School girl estimates that she has between 35,000 and 50,000 busy bees in her one hive.

And as evidence of the industry of her charges, Margaret's first "harvest" a couple of weeks ago yielded better than 80 pounds of honey.

OF THAT, however, only eight pounds will reach the Hansen table. Seventy-five pounds must remain in the hive.

This Margaret explains, is to leave the bees with sufficient honey upon which to feed through the winter.

Margaret and her father, who is the 4-H club's community leader and who has also acted as Margaret's project leader since Tom Keffer who originally served in that capacity moved away, plan to divide the hive into two hives as soon as they acquire a second queen bee.

Each hive will need a minimum of 30 pounds of honey to see its inhabitants through the winter, Margaret says. The remaining 15 pounds will be used as a "cushion" just in case the bees need more.

AS FOR the eight pounds that did reach the Hansen larder:

"Delicious," says Margaret.

Margaret, incidentally, went through the honey harvest without incident. Her father wasn't so fortunate. He got stung.

The 13-year-old says, however, that she, too, has felt the stingers of her charges. The discomfort, she claims, is brief.

IN ADDITION to the regular hive in the Hansen back yard, Margaret maintains an observation hive on the window sill of her room.

What do the other kids think of her strange hobby?

"Well," the 4-Her grins, "they think it's kind of wierd."

This doesn't bother Margaret.

SHE SAYS she first got interested in bees while living in Southern California's orange grove country where hives were numerous.

The Hansens moved to San Rafael two years ago.

In Marin, Margaret wrote to the farm adviser's office for instructions on how to raise bees. And pretty soon, her project was under way.

Once a week, on Saturday or Sunday, preferably a warm day, Margaret, with her father's help, takes the hive apart just to make sure the queen is still there, and that no disease has invaded the hive.

Her dad's assistance is necessary, she explains, "because the top brood chamber alone weighs 70 pounds."

Margaret's mother, Barbara Hansen, watches, too—with approval. She's a 4-H Club cooking leader, and has some recipes that will make good use of her daughter's produce.

WHETHER OR not smoke is used while working with the bees depends upon their mood.

"If they are riled up, it is sometimes better to use a little smoke," Margaret says. "Then you don't squish so many of them." Sometimes when the bees are calm, she even dispenses with her mask.

Don Brittsan, Marin's 4-H farm adviser, says that Margaret is one of two Marin 4-H members currently active in raising bees as a project. The second is also a girl. And she, Lilli Sommer, is a veteran apiarist, currently operating 10 hives at her San Geronimo home.

Margaret also serves her 4-H club as reporter.

THE 51-MEMBER San Rafael club and the 11 other clubs in Marin County will be observing National 4-H Week starting today and continuing through next Saturday.

Adviser Brittsan says the 4-H movement will be celebrating the close of a most successful club year in Marin.

There are now some 634 Marin youths, ages 10 to 19, enrolled in the 4-H program. This marks a growth of nearly 100 members in a 12-year period.

COVER PHOTO

REAPING HER first reward from her bee project, San Rafael Community 4-H Club member Margaret Hansen, 13, holds her initial honey harvest. She found 83 pounds of honey inside the hive, but 75 pounds of the sweet stuff had to be left to see the bees through the winter. Margaret and the other 633 4-H Club members in Marin County will be observing National 4-H Week starting today and continuing through next Saturday. Cover photo and others shown here were taken by Independent-Journal photographer Jim Kean.

FATHER AND DAUGHTER open up the back yard hive for a regular weekly check on the bees. William R. Hansen, who has been project leader for his daughter's work, often has to help with the lifting. This super can weigh as much as 70 pounds. Sometimes, if the bees are riled up, they need a little smoke to calm them. The bees here are relatively calm, however. Otherwise Hansen would not be able to work without a mask.

THROUGH THE GLASS of this observation hive, Margaret Hansen can watch her bees at her work and pick up the necessary information for a successful 4-H project. The observation hive is set up on the sill of her room in the Hansen home on Coleman Drive, San Rafael, but is so arranged that the bees cannot enter the house. The small observation hive should not be confused with Margaret's second hive in the family garden. That is where the production has been going full blast this summer and where Margaret has made her first harvest.

A Congressman On Race

By DON KEOWN

The record compiled by Frank E. Smith as a congressman from 1950 to 1962 was excellent by any standard.

Considering his state of origin and the dismal, parochial performances of his congressional compatriots from Mississippi, his services were downright brilliant. "A breath of fresh air out of a political swamp," Edward P. Morgan called him.

Yet, like such senators as J. William Fulbright and Lister Hill, even a man of Smith's ability and understanding could not escape the necessity of paying occasional lip-service to the Deep South's peculiarly tortured concept of race relations.

His autobiography, "Congressman From Mississippi," dwells largely upon this "politics of race," and the price that America, and the South in particular, are paying for one region's psychotic preoccupation with segregation as a symbol of what is glibly called "the Southern way of life."

Congressmen and senators must devote their talents and energies to such "issues" as the avoidance of the terms "Mr." and "Mrs." in addressing Negro constituents. World affairs and basic national problems are overshadowed by such trivialities.

Says Smith of Mississippians: "Their anguish lies in the fact that, enslaved by their need to talk about the Negro, they can not talk, or think, effectively, about anything else. It is an appalling dissipation of energy which could so much better be used to the economic and social advantage of the state."

Smith flatly rejects the Southern rallying cry of "state's rights" as a discredited, negative doctrine used solely in an attempt to lend respectability to sordid bigotry and injustice.

Southern moderates in public life must follow the lead of Dixie extremists, if they are to win re-election. Thus does Smith justify his own anti-civil rights statements and votes, mouthings contradicted by his own intellect. By so doing, he thought, he was preventing his replacement by a real racial demagogue. But even this did not save him in 1962 when he went down to defeat before a "know nothing" opponent.

Today, Smith is a Tennessee Valley Authority director.

His book is not limited to the race problem. There's the story of his boyhood in the Deep South, his war service, a look at journalism Dixie-style, a term in the state legislature, and a great deal of insight into congressional give-and-take. But it is Smith's revealing commentary of "the politics of race" that is the "meat" of his book, and lifts it into the category of important, meaningful reading.

THE WANDERING HUSBAND by Dr. Hyman Spotnitz and Lucy Freeman, Prentice-Hall, 224 pages, $4.95.

IN HIS "The Wandering Husband," subtitled "Love, Sex and the Married Man," psychiatrist Dr. Hyman Spotnitz contends that Dr. Alfred Kinsey was being conservative when he estimated that as many as 70 per cent of all American wedded males have been untrue to their mates at one time or another.

Says Dr. Spotnitz in his book, co-authored with writer Lucy Freeman: "It would seem that the married man who has never had an affair in this year of 1964 is a rarity in America."

Spotnitz then proceeds to examine the causes for such widespread promiscuity.

Most marriage failures result, he finds, from the failure of one or both principals to mature emotionally.

He takes up such questions as:

Is monogamy a natural and beneficial state for man? Is it the man or woman, or both, who is usually to blame for a domestic crack-up? Where do sex and love fit together? Does hate have a role in marriage? To what degree does fear handicap our marriages? Is sex "addiction" really virility? Why do some make cruelty a part of their sex life? What lies behind the problems of impotency and frigidity — of homosexuality? What is the one essential "must" for a successful marriage?

The answer to that last question, Dr. Spotnitz says, is "love." And real love, he adds, must be earned.

In answering the questions, the psychiatrist relates many of the case histories of his own patients and the conclusions he has drawn from them.

His discussion is frank and provocative. And ultimately, despite the record of promiscuous infidelity which he himself cites, he is optimistic as to the future of the institution of marriage. The basic problem, he feels, is the unwillingness of husbands and wives to face up to the real causes of marital discord. If they will abandon their preoccupation with superficiality and face the facts, then they will be able to come to an understanding and a harmonious relationship. And the husband's "wanderlust" will disappear.

There is a suggested reading list at the conclusion of each chapter for those who might wish to pursue this complex subject further.

Arthritic's Story

MY FIGHT WITH ARTHRITIS by Faith Perkins, Random House, 183 pages, $3.95. Reviewed by Maxine Keown.

San Franciscan Faith Perkins has written the case history of her struggle with arthritis both as a warning to those who suffer from the crippling ailment of the cruel exploitation to which they can be subjected by "quacks," and as a source of hope to the afflicted faced with the hard fact that they must live with their painful handicap.

It is also an appeal for understanding by the non-afflicted or the special problems of the afflicted.

And a call for renewed effort by our society to step up its quest for final answers to the cause and cure of arthritis.

Mrs. Perkins tells her story in a literate and calm manner, avoiding pathos, pessimism and hysteria. In addition to her informative comment directly applicable to the field of arthritis, she has some more general suggestions on medicine and drugs that are worthy of our consideration.

She is concerned over the "pill - swallowing civilization" that she believes is evolving from our present system, and she would like to see corrective steps taken.

There is a growing realization that arthritis has been much underrated as a medical problem. More publicized diseases have overshadowed it in the past.

Mrs. Perkins' excellent book should help correct that situation. And perhaps it will even bring down to earth a society willing to spend billions for space exploration, but frugal to the point of niggardliness with its expenditures for the solution of such health problems as cancer and arthritis, to say nothing of the social ills, that exist on our own planet.

Myrdal's Racial Report On America In Paperback

AN AMERICAN DILEMMA by Gunnar Myrdal, McGraw-Hill Paperbacks, Two Volumes, 1330 pages, $6.90. Reviewed by Lee Cadwallader.

In 1937 the Carnegie Corporation invited Dr. Gunnar Myrdal, a scholar who had achieved an international reputation as a social economist, a professor in the University of Stockholm, economic adviser to the Swedish Government, and a member of the Swedish Senate, to study the Negro problem in America.

The original report of 1940 has been reissued in the Complete Twentieth Anniversary Edition in two volumes.

Volume I, "The Negro in a White Nation," with a new preface by the author and a review of recent events by Arnold Rose, is reported from the white man's viewpoint.

That is, we are presented with what the white man thinks about the Negro, how he feels about the Negro, and how history, economics and law influence his actions toward the Negro.

This is an unusual perspective on the problem, and all the more interesting because the data were gathered and evaluated by an impartial foreigner. The editors made unnecessary apologies to the reader for Dr. Myrdal's English; it's refreshingly simple, lucid and entertaining.

The print is small in this edition and the footnotes are almost blinding, but it is so well written that I found myself reading every last word.

The second volume is on the "Negro Social Structure." Although the information is twenty years old, it is appalling to note how little had been changed until 1963. In light of current developments the accuracy of Myrdal's predictions is astounding.

The general hopeful tone and his acceptance of all that is fine in America is reflected in his following quotation:

"As my study dragged me through all the serious imperfections of American life related to the Negro problem, I became ever more hopeful about the future.

"This sense of hopefulness, together with the complete identification I could feel with the moral force, which in this book I referred to as the American Creed, made it subjectively easier for me to carry out an assignment which, in fact, called upon me to become an expert—more so than any other European scholar of this generation—on almost everything that is wrong in America.

"For the Negro problem is intertwined with all other social, economic, political and cultural problems, and its study affords a perspective on the American nation as a whole."

Fuzzy Focus

WORD OF MOUTH by Jerome Weidman. Random House, 365 pages. $5.95. Reviewed by Barbara Hosmer.

In his newest novel New Yorker Jerome Weidman plunges his protagonist, John Sayer, into active reminiscence of a haunted boyhood in his father's upstate Utopian colony, with the object the mounting of a drama of the colony epoch for the Broadway stage.

As the diamond - eyed playwright probes deeper into Sayer's memories, a series of flashbacks are triggered ending in the ultimate conclusion of death. With all the ingredients present for engrossing entertainment, somehow the book's characters and episodes remain hazy and elusive, and the reader is kept hoping that finally the whole will come into focus.

Dolan Scores Again

ADVENTURE WITH A MICROSCOPE;A Story of Robert Koch by Edward F. Dolan Jr., Dodd, Mead and Co., 240 pages, $3.50. Reviewed by Richard Lyttle.

San Rafael's author Edward F. Dolan Jr. has used his fine talents of research and suspense to portray Dr. Robert Koch and tell of his two early and important discoveries.

Koch, who wanted desperately to be something more than a country doctor in Posen, Germany, worked with a single-mindedness that seemed almost superhuman.

He succeeded in isolating the anthrax bacillus, using a crude microscope given to him as a birthday present from his wife.

Dolan starts his story with this gift, showing how Frau Koch hoped the microscope would settle the restless spirit of her husband. She did not know that she was launching her husband on an adventure that would not end until his death in 1910.

Koch, already searching for the cause of anthrax, was stumped for the lack of a microscope.

Dolan treats the emotions of man and wife with great depth and tenderness and succeeds in building drama and suspense from the beginning. It is a drama that continues through the quick-reading book.

The local author in this, his sixth book, shows us that the life of a researcher in the 19th Century was not a glamorous thing and the lot of a researcher's wife was often a torture.

Relationship between Koch and his wife was often strained, particularly when he neglected his patients for research or when he imported caged mice into the house for his experiments.

But in time Frau Koch realized the impotence of her husband's efforts, and when the doctor was able to announce to the medical world that he had isloated and grown cultures of the deadly anthrax, she took a strong pride in him.

Many biographers neglect the distaff side in telling of their famous men. Dolan does not and it is a great credit to his story.

EDWARD DOLAN JR.
San Rafael author

Koch's announcement all but settled the fierce debate over the germ theory of disease, and medical men throughout the world began isolating or claiming to isolate germs of many other diseases.

Many of these claims were premature and false. But Koch, a plodding researcher, showed scientists the sure methods of research. Set up in a Berlin laboratory, he successfully isolated the tuberculosis bacillus.

As an incidental development in these studies, he developed solid matter for culturing germs. His agar is now in general use in laboratories throughout the world.

Dolan, whose interest centers on men of science and discovery, has done biographies of Pasteur, Jenner, Humboldt, the Arctic explorers, and Walter Reed and others who conquered yellow fever.

Story Of Rails Ranks High

MOGULS AND IRON MEN, by James McCague. Harper and Row, 366 pages, illustrated, $7.95. Reviewed by Bryce W. Anderson.

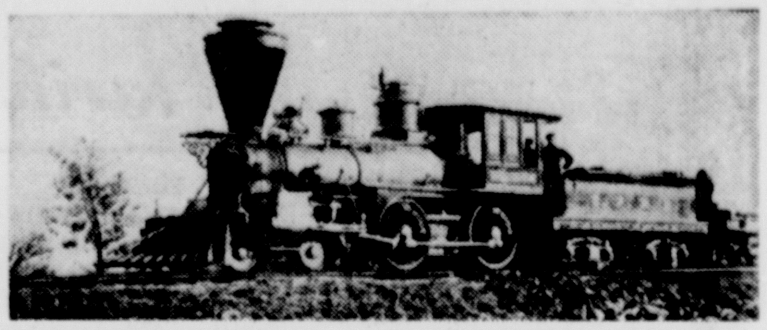
The moguls were the men who dreamed the dream; the iron men made it real. Among hands, they tied America together with a pair of gleaming tracks 1,776 miles long.

The moguls were the Big Four, and their opposite numbers of the Union Pacific. Before the Central Pacific's rails had reached the city limits of Sacramento, or the Union Pacific had put down iron in Omaha, there were those who said the moguls' dream was merely avarice.

One who likely thought so was Theodore Dehone Judah. For the dream of a railroad from California to the Missouri River was his; he had sold it to four wealthy but tight-fisted merchants in Sacramento; he ran the surveys to the California line—and then they squeezed him out.

The principal dreamers among the Union Pacific promoters were Grenville Dodge, its chief engineer, and Dr. Thomas Clark Durant, a medico turned railroad plunger, whom author James McCague finds an enigma. Neither of them was squeezed out, but Durant very nearly was.

The Big Four—Charles Crocker, Colis Huntington, Mark Hopkins and Leland Stanford—were reviled for their methods as railroad (and empire) builders. But theirs was nothing to the storm that broke about the heads of the "Union Pacific crowd" with the Credit Mobilier scandals soon after the railroad was built.



FIRST LOCOMOTIVE on the Central Pacific in 1863 was dubbed the Governor Stanford. The illustration from the Hopkins Transportation Library at Stanford University is one of those included in "Moguls and Iron Men."

That storm ruined the political career and the life of Congressman Oakes Ames, who had spent his entire fortune — a considerable one—to drive those tracks from Omaha to Promontory on the northern shore of the Great Salt Lake.

McCague, in "Moguls and Iron Men," finds the scandals were much inflated. The railroad promoters set out to do the impossible. They did it. If they broke a few laws—and stretched many more—in the doing, perhaps it was because there was no other way. And he finds much more than mere avarice in their dreams as the iron men started to make those dreams come true.

Nobody criticized the iron men—except the people in the few established towns they roared through on their hard-driving, hard-drinking, hell-raising way.

From General Jack Casement's Irish Paddies to Charlie Crocker's pig-tailed Chinamen, they were heroes all, who performed Herculean feats. And the greatest of all were the members of a picked crew of Chinese and Irish on Crocker's payroll who laid over 10 miles of track in a single day near the close of the race of the rails.

There was no end of political intrigue and financial finagling behind the scenes as the Pacific Railroad came into being as the first fast transportation to link both coasts of the United States. Out on the line itself, death lurked in awesome mountain precipices, in mammoth snowslides, in the bullets and arrows of hostile Indians, and in bottles of rotgut whisky.

McCague, who grew up in a railroad family and worked in a roundhouse before he began a writing career as a Brooklyn Eagle reporter, tells in detail and with verve both stories—the backstage one and that out on the grade. Many books have been written about the building of the transcontinental railroads; "Moguls and Iron Men" ranks among the best.

Another Road?

THE ROAD TO LEENANE by Angela du Maurier, Appleton - Century, 286 pages, $3.95. Reviewed by Helga Epstein.

Possibly this novel, written by the sister of Daphne Du Maurier, may evoke nostalgic memories for readers who know the scenic beauties of the Irish Connemara landscape. Or it may have some appeal to a few unlucky spinsters currently agonizing over unconsummated love affairs with married men.

Mick, purportedly talented, lacks grace and charm or has he the wit to be an intriguing scoundrel. He is hardly an engaging protagonist. The heroine is similarly dull and tiresome in her embrace of virtue and Church (always spelled with a capital C).

Floral Decor

ABC OF FLOWER ARRANGING by Julia Clements, Van Nostrand, 100 pages, $4.95. Reviewed by Maxine Keown.

Thin on text but long on illustrations is this manual by the internationally-known authority on floral decor.

The book is intended for the beginner, and her step-by-step picture lesson approach seems effective. Photos are not in color, thus lessening the impact of the completed arrangements. But they are fine, sharp black-and-whites that make clear the points Miss Clements wants to emphasize.

She covers both the formal and modern styles of arranging, with added chapters on flowers for the table, unusual containers, tricks of the trade and interesting plants.

This is Miss Clements' 11th book on flower arranging. But, she says, this is her first produced solely to encourage the uninitiated to make that first plunge into a fascinating art and hobby — and to guide them through early trial and error.

"There is no mystery about flower arranging and specialized knowledge is not essential," she says.

And in this simple book, Miss Clements seems to have hit upon about the easiest way possible for introducing newcomers to the field. All you do is follow the pictures. Evenutally, of course, you will find yourself branching out with imaginative, creative ideas of your own.

Stereo Hi-Fi

By. C. J. Catania
Audio Engineer

The recent High Fidelity show at the San Francisco Hilton Hotel was truly an innovation in sound. The main ballroom was divided into rooms. Each room was decfurnished with the oratively furnished with the new components, tape recorders, loudspeaker systems, and complete music systems. There certainly were items of interest for every music lover.

One of the show stoppers was, as advertised by the manufacturer, "the smallest, true high fidelity speaker system in the world." This speaker was the MAXIMUS 1 by Goodmans of England. The dimensions of this tiny speaker are 10½" by 7½" by 5½" deep. When one walked into the Goodman room he felt surrounded with a big sound, and yet after looking around the room, there seemed to be no speakers at all. A closer inspection showed two of these tiny units sitting on a table at one end of the room. It was hard to believe that so much sound could be coming from those units.

The Maximus 1 speaker system consists of a small bass unit with an extremely large magnet assembly. The Goodman people call it a Massive cushioned, air pneumatic suspension woofer. There is a built-in crossover network for 1900 cycles, and a mid-treble response direct radiator for for the mid range and high tones. The cabinet is lined with custom acoustic insulation, and is an oiled walnut enclosure. So if you have been looking for a big sound in a small package and at the low price of $59.50, be sure to hear this little gem.

Many of the manufacturers displayed their new transistor components. The two that were most reasonably priced were the Kenwood all-in-one unit and the Scott all-in-one unit. Dual record changers were displayed playing records in an upside down position, so if you prefer to play your records while lying in bed with the record changer hanging directly above you, it can be arranged. Garrard has a new laboratory series record changer for playing 33 and 45 rpm records. It has a large heavily weighted turntable and a delicately balanced wooden tone arm with pneumatic air cushion lowering of the tone arm. The Tannoy loudspeaker room was very impressive for its truly realistic sound. The reproduction from the Tannoy Monitor dual concentric series was spectacular.

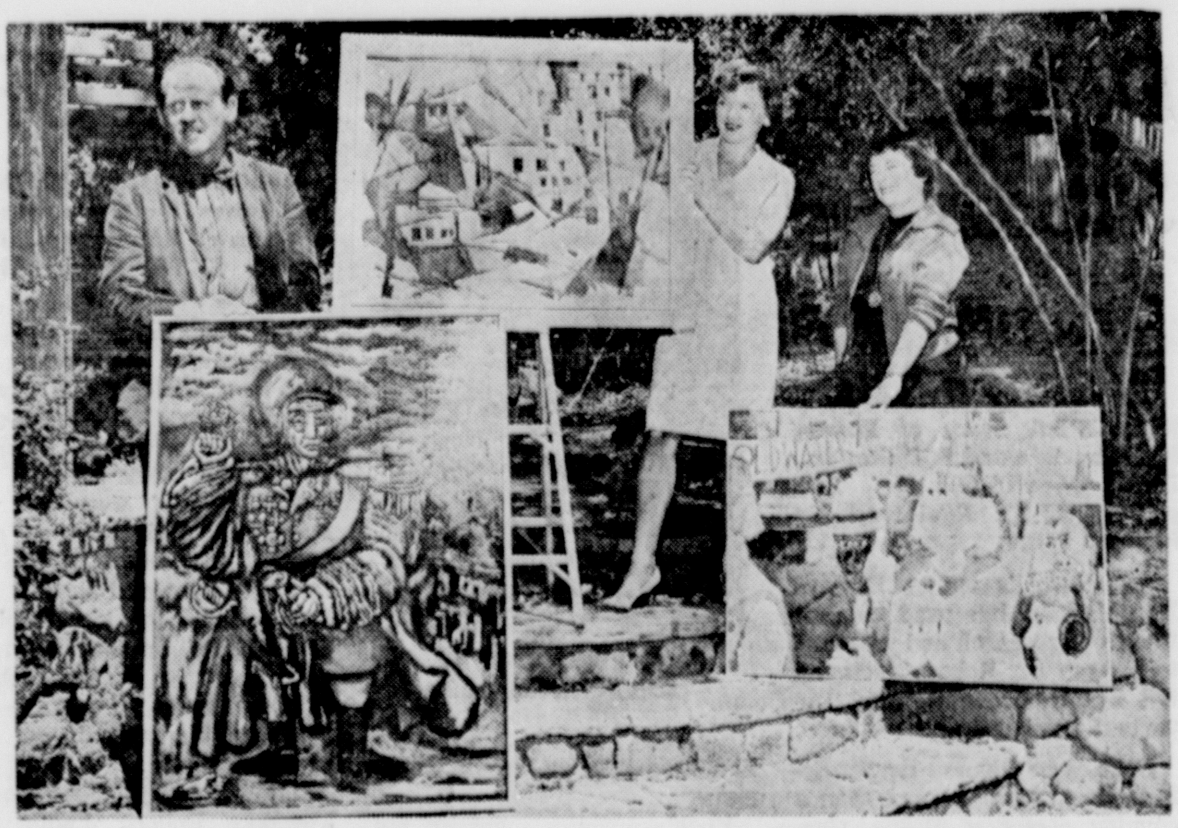
ART

LES GIRLS BOUTIQUE in San Rafael, display of Triptychs based on medieval themes by Lois Wing of Fairfax, from Oct. 1 through Oct. 16.



FOR A CHANGE OF PACE in art, the current Social Commentary Show of the Marin Society of Artists at the Peacock Gap Country Club, San Rafael, is attracting wide attention. Participating artists Ken Ruffner and Barbara Stonecipher, right, show their paintings entitled "The General" and "The Convention," respectively, both included in the show. In the center with one of her paintings is Phoebe Deignan, in charge of entries for the social commentary exhibit. The show continues through Oct. 15. (Independent-Journal photo)

The Stereo Scene With Sunier

THE JEREMY STEIG QUARTET—FLUTE FEVER—Columbia Stereo CS-8936:

Young Steig is the son of the famous cartoonist Bill Steig, and drew the cover and jacket art for his first album. He has only been playing jazz for five years, but has a quality of originality and imagination about his playing that mark an important new jazz figure.

Steig treats the flute as a strong instrument, not as an accompanist to a French art song. He frequently produces a rasping vocal sound of fierce intensity.

Steig's pianist is a John Hopkins medical student, Denny Zeitlin, who has some equally individualistic and often unexpected ideas up his sleeves. Two tracks running more than 10 minutes each allow both to create some exceptional music—"So What" and "Blue Seven."

The final kooky item about this lp is that this was the very first time Steig and Zeitlin had ever played together!

TIME CHANGES—THE DAVE BRUBECK QUARTET—Columbia Stereo CS-8927:

Dave's latest lp continues exploration of the element of time in jazz, following on the heels of such previous albums as "Time Out," "Time Further Out," and "Time in Outer Space."

The five tracks on the first side explore such combinations as three-quarter, the relationship of six-three-three-two, and ten-four time.

"Cable Car," with its cymbal imitation of the clanging trolley bell, harks back to the Quartet's old hit, "The Trolley Song," many a year ago.

The important item on this disc is "Elementals," one of the most successful extended compositions for jazz group plus symphony orchestra this corner has yet heard. Its entire 17 minutes is full of the most remarkable sounds in both jazz and concert music, and there is plenty of freedom for improvisation to boot.

WILLIS JACKSON — THE GOOD LIFE — Prestige 7296:

Willis is a tenor sax man with a keening, schmaltzy sort of sound that sticks close to the melodic lines. His backing is only a five-piece group with trumpet and organ, but it sounds like a whole bloomin' big band most of the time.

The title song is fun, and "Days of Wine and Roses" is another joy of the seven tracks.

MARIN POETS' CORNER

EARLY WATCH

Venus vanishes into the shipless sea
As the young basket moon holds fast
In the western night sky
Steady, to receive jealous Jupiter
Here in the star-worn Indian Ocean
Cool night breezes languidly lull
Nereus, the god of the sea,
Causing bottom stars to play peek-a-boo
Between dark boom and lambent mainsail.
Do the fishes in this ocean suburbia protest
The sea god's swish through their quiet deep?
Does the moon take pride in showing us
The way she has so long known?
Do the sea winds laugh as they whip our luffing sails
And watch my finger tips stretch to pull close
The star-strewn sky?

SAUSALITO — PEGGY POMEROY

FULFILLMENT

Can you smell it in the air?
It's just around the corner—
When you shop and look around,
And though there is motion,
All the world has stopped.
A quietness, a stillness,
A sense of peace. Love.
Indian Summer.

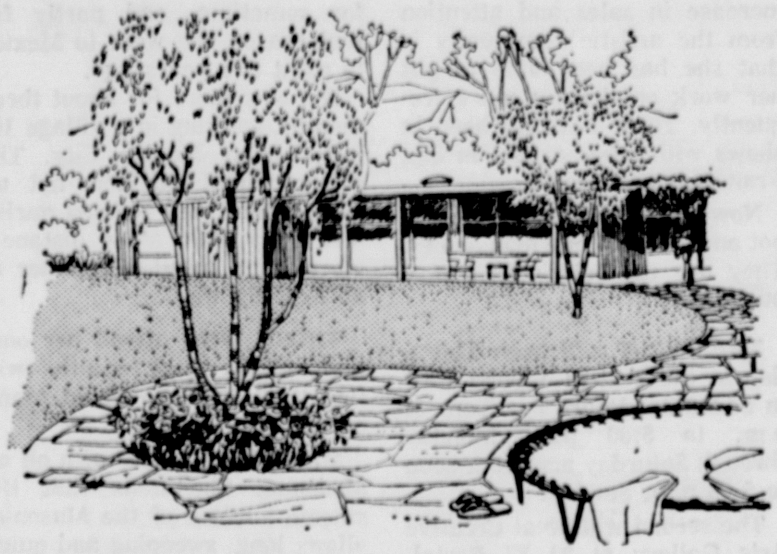
Plant Lawns In Autumn

Gardening Page



There are good reasons for starting a bluegrass lawn in the autumn.

1. The soil is warm and good seed sprouts quickly.

2. The seedbed cultivates; the soil is not sticky.

3. Most weeds are finishing their life cycle.

4. Grass won't need much mowing; it won't grow tall.

5. Most garden chores are finished, reducing competition for time.

FOR LAWNS that can't be pampered, use a seed mixture principally of Kentucky bluegrasses and fine fescues (Chewings, Illahee, Penlawn), recommends Dr. Robert W. Schery, director of The Lawn Institute.

The bluegrass lawn started or refurbished in the fall is one of the staunchest foes of crabgrass. Kentcuky bluegrass, Oregon fine fescues and Highland bentgrass are at their best in the cool of autumn when crabgrass ends its seasonal cycle.

BY STARTING bluegrass lawns in the fall, the grass gets a good start and should be considerably ahead of crabgrass (with help from fertilizer) next spring. Crabgrass sprouts when hot weather arrives. By this time, a successful lawn should be tight enough to bar crabgrass. A thick lawn of permanent, healthy grass won't be injured by application of crabgrass preventers in the spring.

Autumn is the time to eradicate some weeds that mar your lawn in spring—such as dandelions, plantains, chickweed and cress.

AGAINST perennial broadleaf weeds we suggest 2,4-D preferably applied on a warm day when the weeds are growing. You may have to rely on more potent Silvex or 2,4,5-T to get rid of ground ivy, clover and mouse-ear chickweed.

Schery says these chemicals will not harm the better turfgrasses. Some bentgrasses, particularly the creeping varieties, may become discolored.

CRABGRASS killers are better applied in the spring. By fall, the plants will have died, but the seeding already has been accomplished.

BIG FAMILY

Eucalyptus Available In Many Shapes, Colors

To many, the Eucalyptus is a tall, rangy tree which is easily spotted along boulevards, on golf courses, and in dense forests.

But these Australian immigrants come in shapes and sizes suited for nearly every landscaping detail. California gardeners are becoming more and more familiar with these easy-to-care-for trees in the small, flowering varieties.

WHEN YOU take that second look at your garden and decide these trees might be the answer, ask your local nurseryman for a close look at the Tall Sand Mallee. Its clusters of dainty honey-colored blooms brighten garden areas in the winter months. It is moderate in growth and suitable to nearly every home area.

The Illyarie reaches the same height as the Tall Sand Mallee, 12 to 13 feet, but has the additional attraction of vibrant red buds which open to pale green and yellow flowers. These blooms appear frequently throughout the year.

SMALL RED flowers add a bright note in February and March with the Red Flowered Mallee. Reaching a height of 13 feet, it appears more like a tree-shrub than a genuine Eucalyptus.

The Red Flowering Gum has slow growth to a mere 13 feet. It's thick with foliage and shows flowers in July of orange, red and white.

THERE ARE many more varieties, too numerous to describe. The Bell-Fruited Mallee, the Silver Mountain Gum, the Red Ironbark, the Coral Gum, and the more popular Silver Dollar Gum.

The Silver Dollar Gum is perhaps the most versatile as it can be topped to form a screen, trained to cover a wall, or let alone to grow to 7-13 feet in height. The rounded foliage, which gives it the popular name, is excellent for cut arrangements in the home.

GARDENERS CHECKLIST

Here is the Marin gardener's checklist for the coming week:

- Shop now for spring blooming bulbs especially ranunculus and anemone while the supply is good. You can set them out at your leisure, but buy while all varieties are available.
- Disbud camellias which have set too many buds. It's best to do it now before the shrubs channel any more energy into excessive buds.
- Plant blooming chrysanthemums to make up for lack of fall flower color in your garden.
- Fall is an ideal time to plant native evergreens since the early winter rains will help get them established.
- The Persimmon tree provides fruit for some of fall's most decorative table centerpieces. At the same time, the tree itself provides a bonus of big brilliant autumn foliage that turns to bronze and red. Gardeners who have not discovered this fine garden tree should get acquainted with it at their local nursery. The Persimmon fits neatly into small gardens and has few demands other than sufficient and good, rich soil.

Larkspur Artist Developing Market

People Are Her Subjects

By RICHARD LYTTLE

Larkspur's Jeanne Babette Wilson is an artist who has suddenly discovered a following.

"It's just been within the last year," she explained.

It was about a year ago that she rented a studio in San Francisco, commuting there from her home at 96 Madrone Avenue. Since then she has begun to sell her lively paintings of moody people.

IF LIVELY and moody seem conflicting adjectives it is only because Mrs. Wilson, who paints under the name of Jeanne Babette, recognizes a conflict in life.

Life, to her, is basically a sad thing, but she sees people everywhere in a desperate attempt to be happy. The sadness of living always seems to prevail in her characters.

"I don't think people have an awful lot of choice other than to accept the sadness, but I'm interested in seeing what they do with the little choice they have," she explained.

HER FIGURES stand on street corners, waiting. Or they walk along the sidewalks, looking. Or they sit in bars or cabarets, expectantly. It's all as if they are waiting for the gaiety and happiness that refuses to come. Few of her people find anything to smile about.

And her paintings are lively through the vivid contrast of warm orange and reds with cool greens and blues and through the artist's quick brush strokes.

Mrs. Wilson is basically a self-taught artist. She explained that her sketching, that began in high school days had to be quick. Her subjects were always on the go and in the paintings her people look as if they are about to jump up and depart at any moment.

SHE HAS never worked with a paid model who could be counted to hold a pose for several minutes, even hours.

The lack of formal training also forced her to develop her own technique with colors and composition through trial and error. This added much labor to her development as an artist, but at the same time, it permitted her to develop her own style.

SHE DID not fall into the common trap of following a school or of imitating a teacher's technique or style.

But, although she points to these unschooled advantages, she is quick to list those who have helped her with training and criticism.

She started painting five years ago while living in Spokane, Wash. There Herman Keys helped her with weekly sessions. Four years ago when she moved to Marin, she found help from Ralph Putzker, art professor at San Francisco State College.

MRS. WILSON does not think her style has changed much in the last year. The reason for her increase in sales and attention from the artistic community is that she has been able to put her work on display more frequently. These have all been in shows with other artists in San Francisco and Marin.

Now she is getting ready for not one, but two one-man shows. They are the culmination of a busy year.

THE FIRST will open Thursday in the Tiki in Village Fair in Sausalito. Hours are from 11 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Monday through Saturday and from noon to 5:30 p.m. Sunday.

The second will be at Creative Arts Gallery at 22 El Portal, Sausalito starting Oct. 15. Hours are from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday through Saturday and from noon to 6 p.m. Sunday. This show will continue until Dec. 1.

Mrs. Wilson has tried painting landscapes, but finds that a picture without people does not hold any interest for her.

SOMETIMES her figures and the groupings are reminiscent of the great Mexican muralists. Her friends had remarked this for sometime, and partly for that reason she went to Mexico to paint two years ago.

She was there for about three months, working in a village 100 miles from Mexico City. The colors stimulated her, not up close where they seemed garish and dirty, but at a distance, where they blended together in an exciting way.

THOSE WHO attend her one-man shows next month, will find this ability to blend many colors.

Mrs. Wilson paints with oil on Masonite. She finds that the smooth surface of the Masonite allows long, sweeping and quick brush strokes.

The foundation of her work is her sketch book. She uses it at every opportunity she can, but finds that she never has enough sketches. Sometimes she sketches at art shows and transfers these quick renderings to a painting.

If you attend one of her shows, the artist may catch you with her quick pencil. Who knows? You might become part of a painting.

THESE PEOPLE are not happy, but they are trying to be. That's a theme that runs through nearly all of the artist's work. Mrs. Wilson, who signs her work "Jeanne Babette," has been painting seriously for the past five years.

SIMPLE PERGOLA can go a long way in lifting up the looks of your yard. Posts are connected by two-by-six beams and notched cross-pieces of one-by-six. The pergola can shade a path or give protection to shade-loving plants. Vines planted at each post will soon create a natural roof. Deciduous vines have the advantage of letting in some winter sun.

Tidy Shop Not Getting Use

It's highly unlikely you'll ever see a home workshop that bears any resemblance to those glistening layouts that occasionally make an appearance in some publications.

The housekeeping chores involved in keeping such workshops spotless would prevent them from ever being used for making or fixing things.

CONCEDING, then, that a certain amount of disorder is inevitable, it still is possible to keep a home workshop reasonably neat, clean and safe with a minimum amount of trouble.

The secret is in making it easy to put things in their proper places, whether it be tools, nails, lumber, sawdust or oily rags.

IF YOU have a holder for screwdrivers, you're likely to return a screwdriver to it rather than placing it on a bench. If you have individual containers for nails and screws of different sizes, you won't find the fasteners all over the place.

If a lumber-storage rack is convenient, pieces of wood will wind up there rather than on the floor. And metal containers for sawdust and rags not only will encourage neatness, they'll help to prevent fires.

IN PLANNING a workshop, you can make it easier for yourself by remembering certain fundamentals. Here are some of them:

If the workshop is large enough to keep your table saw in the center of the room, fine. If it isn't, better put retractable rubber casters on the legs of the saw stand so that it can be moved to the center when you're working with large pieces of wood.

IT WILL be difficult to keep your tools from rusting if the workshop is in a damp basement. A dehumidifier of some sort may be a necessity.

Sweeping a basement floor will be a lot easier if you cover the concrete with resilient tiles of some other type of smooth flooring.

ENTIRELY aside from the regular lighting, consider the use of a lamp for a specific area where you may be doing fine work.

Where you don't want the sounds of power tools reverberating through the house, acoustical ceiling tiles will do much towards muffling those sounds.

Other preventive measures: see that all motor belts are neither too tight nor too loose; place rubber cushions on tool stands which tend to rattle; and, if there is a workshop door, keep it closed when a machine is operating.

If there are children in the family, keep power tools locked when you aren't there. This can be somewhat of a nuisance if you have a number of such tools, which is a good reason for enclosing the workshop area so that the door can be locked.

For A Ceiling That's Different

Ceiling tiles are easy to apply as well as being decorative — which explains their continued popularity with do-it-yourselfers. But don't overlook other ways in which the ceilings of extra rooms can be made attractive.

For a luxury look, wood paneling can't be beat. Some interesting effects can be obtained with plywood, especially with striated squares.

Gypsum board makes an inexpensive ceiling. Hardboard produces a smooth ceiling and is easy to paint. Wallpaper is very effective. Textured fabrics also can be used; even ordinary canvas is striking in certain types of playrooms.

There are dozens of ways to make a ceiling attractive or different or both—or whatever you want it to be.

Luxury Fad Hits Bathroom Fixtures

Why put the family jewels in a vault when you can look at them every day safely anchored in something solid around the house, like the bathroom water faucets.

One woman did just that with a couple of treasured cameos for a unique motif, says Stanley Paul, whose business is hardware and decorative accessories. He had the cameos installed in the pop-up knobs in her lavatory.

"THE BATHROOM has been the steproom of the house, decoratively speaking, until recently. But now about 75 per cent of our business is in luxury items like gold and silver plated fixtures for the bath," he says.

Paul, a member of the American Society of Architectural Consultants, plans bathrooms for decorators who do not like the bother of the technical details required in new-style bathrooms.

THOUGH THEY do modern, Oriental, federal and any other style bathroom one desires, Louis XVI is stealing the play today in trend-setting New York, Paul says, mainly because of its classic simplicity.

Swans, dolphins and lions head motifs are likely to become tiresome after awhile but the traditional reed and ribbon motif of the Louis period withstands the ages because of its regal lines, he says. It's a safe bet — a good investment.

HANDSOME crystal knobs are used on faucets and bathroom cabinets. In gold plate, silver plate, chrome or brass one can find hexagon, pine cone, melon and other good designs. Pewter fixtures are very popular.

Even the glass, soap, toothbrush, tissue holders and medicine chest cabinets that are recessed have handsome moldings in bamboo, wreath, Greek key and reed and ribbon designs. And in some instances these same designs are carried right into the wash basin.

"WHO WOULD have thought a few years ago that our catalog companies would be selling decorated wash basins? It looked like a high style item that would have limited appeal. But the demand shows the interest in dressing up the bathroom," Paul says.

SINK CABINETS are stock items or custom made. Many have marble tops, and in many instances match marble floors. Marble tubs and back splashes are popular.

People will spend anything for the luxury items available today in decorative hardware. One Texan ordered solid gold light switches in a Louis pattern. He bought 15 at $650 apiece.

Boyer Will Tell; He's Happy 65

Many men mark their 65th birthday by retiring from their life's work.

Charles Boyer is celebrating his 65th by costarring in a movie and a television series simultaneously.

It seems incredible that Hollywood's version of Le Grand Charles could be 65, but he is the first to admit it. Today is his birthday.

"I HAVE never tried to hide my age," said the ever-charming Boyer. "Oh, I know that actresses do it, and some actors, too. But it is silly. There are so many ways of finding out an actor's age.

"Besides, if you don't tell your age, people are apt to think you are older than you really are."

Boyer is one of the few actors whose birthdate is plainly printed in his official biography. He has never made any fuss about his baldness; he plays roles with or without toupee, his hair having thinned at age 27.

Smooth-topped or wigged, he remains a handsome figure of a man.

THE ROMANTIC quality is still present, and that is a factor he has had to live with all these years.

"It's really a misconception," he argued.

"I actually did very few romantic roles; 'Love Affair' was one, and it remains one of my favorites."

ADMITTEDLY he made movie love to many of the great female stars — Garbo "Conquest," Dietrich "Garden of Allah," Davis "All This and Heaven, too," Bergman "Gaslight," De Havilland "Hold Back the Dawn."

But always he was a man of action, as with his Napoleon in "Conquest."

BOYER HAS worked all his adult life. Right now he is appearing with Rock Hudson and Leslie Caron in "The Favor." On his days off from the movie he works in "The Rogues," the new television series which he and partner David Niven and Gig Young are making for their Four Star Productions.

"I will always go on working," Boyer said, "although a few years ago I decided to do only the things I enjoy."

STARTING THURSDAY IN THE Independent-Journal, AN INTERESTING, INFORMATIVE AND TIMELY COLUMN ABOUT INTERIOR DECORATION AND HOME FURNISHING

from Bellach's

Smart Living

By Charles H. Bellach

SHOULD FURNITURE BE MIXED OR MATCHED?

Many years ago, furniture stores featured six, seven, and even eight piece living room sets all in the same wood finishes. This finish usually was either mahogany, walnut or maple. Very often the fabric and color on the upholstered pieces were all identical.

Although many people still prefer to use the same wood finishes throughout the living room, the trend through the years has been to get away from sets or suites of living room furniture by using many different finishes in the same room very effectively.

As a matter of fact, many leading decorators prefer using different wood finishes and even different periods in the same room.

One of the loveliest living rooms I have seen had a mahogany piano, a modern sofa, two Early American maple chairs, a white marble top cocktail table with black base, and a fruitwood French Provincial breakfront. However, all the colors and textures of the floor coverings, fabrics, lamps, draperies and walls were beautifully blended.

So whether you like to mix or match, our decorators are at your service without cost or obligation. We invite you to come in. And be sure to watch for our future columns on furniture and interior decorating ideas. We'll be bringing them to you regularly.

This is just a sample of the column that will be written by both Charles and Viola Bellach, weekly. It is intended simply for whatever information and assistance any reader may care to make of it. Subject matter will come from the vast experience of the Bellach's, nationally recognized Marin leaders in this field, and from constant contact and interviews with foremost authorities in home decoration.

If you are interested in any subject treated . . . the Bellachs will be happy to amplify or answer your questions. Just call GL 3-8041 or visit them at
